NEW ROAD BILL PASSES SENATE

Will Become a Law After House Concurs in a Slight Amendment.

COLUMBIANA AND STARK

The Counties to Which It Is Applicable—Meeting of the Smiths—Bill Relating to County Treasurers' Percentages—Capital Gossip.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, April 4.—The Metzger road bill, applying to Stark and Columbiana counties, was passed by the senate yesterday. Senator Connell amended it so as to provide for the appointment of road masters instead of road commissioners, and also that they be selected subject to the approval of the county commissioners. The bill will go back to the house for concurrence in the amendment and then will become a law.

The bill to retain the canals came up for passage in the senate yesterday, but action was deferred till next Tuesday. Senator Hose, of Cincinnati, introduced a bill providing that boards of education may establish a teachers' pension fund, the fund to be supported by contributions of $2 per month by the teachers for a period not less than 10 months in a year. The house made a law of the bill of Senator Roudabush providing that the statute of limitation shall not run in cases of delinquent taxes and authorizing county treasurers to contract for the collection at a rate not to exceed 25 per cent of the total amount collected.

Charles E. Smith, treasurer of Columbiana county, was at the state house yesterday, incidentally putting in a few strokes for the bill introduced to absolve him from the payment of funds lost by reason of the failure of the First National bank of Lisbon. This bill and also that providing for the relief of George D. Flugan, of Lisbon, bondsman of Cashier Child, are on the calendar and will be up for passage on Monday. Had a night session been held an attempt would have been made to rush both bills through last night.

Treasurer Smith of Columbiana, and Treasurer T. Harvey Smith, of Stark, met at the state capital yesterday. Both were present when Representative Metzger introduced a bill which provides that when a suit is begun to collect back taxes, the percentage for the collection shall be paid to the treasurer who started the suit, whether he is in office when the suit is ended or not. Neither gentleman would admit that his presence in the city had anything to do with the bill.

Senator Connell again presided over the senate yesterday. The first time he filled the chair the members indulged in horse-play, but so well did he preserve his dignity and give back as good as he got, that there was no attempt made to repeat the farce when he took up the gavel again.

LYNN-FARRALL

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING CEREMONY AT ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

The Edifice Superbly Decorated—Music Furnished By Nowling's Orchestra.

St. Stephen's Episcopal church was the scene of a beautiful wedding last evening, when Rev. Edwin Weary pronounced the words which united forever the lives of Ernest V. Farrall, of this city, and Miss Carrie B. Lynn, formerly of Steubenville.

Easter lilies, palms and smilax were profusely in the decorations. As the bridal party entered Nowling's orchestra played the favorite "Lohengrin" wedding march. Miss May Lyon, of Coraopolis, Pa., acted as maid of honor. She wore a beautiful gown of pale green crepe de chene, en traine and elaborately trimmed with heavy lace. The bride, entering upon the arm of Mr. Priestly Hindle, looked beautiful in a white Persian lawn en traine and tastefully trimmed in lace and ribbon. Her hair was done a la Janice Meredith, as was that of the maid of honor.

The bridal party were met at the altar by the groom and Mr. M. E. Donaldson, best man. Throughout the ceremony the "Flower Song," played by the orchestra, could be faintly heard.

The ceremony concluded the bridal party retired to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march and were driven to their new home in the East End, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Farrall were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Mr. Farrall is foreman of the clay manufacturing department of the No. 2 plant of the Laughlin China company. He is also a member of Nowling's orchestra. The young couple have a host of friends. They left at midnight for a western trip, after which they will be at home to friends in the East End.

Heavy Losses on Both Sides—Canadians Fought Till All Were Dead.

London, April 4.—(Special)—General Kitchener's brother Herbert's forces and Generals Delarey and Kemp, of the Boer forces, met in battle in the neighborhood of Hart's river, in the southwestern extremity of the Transvaal March 31. The engagement resulted in a repulse for the Boers, after heavy losses on both sides.

The Canadian Rifles especially distinguished themselves, one party, commanded by Lieut. Bruce Carruthers, holding its post till every man was killed or wounded.

CHURCH RECEPTION

AT THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH A VERY SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

A Large Attendance—New Members Welcomed With a Pleasing Program.

The reception held last evening by the members of the First M. E. church was the most successful social event the church has had in years. The missionary societies have for the last few weeks been combining their efforts with those of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Clark Crawford, who has left nothing undone. The attendance was large.

A reception committee consisting of Mrs. G. P. Ikirt, Miss Florence Updegraff, Mrs. Clark Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Golding, Mrs. T. F. Anderson, Jr., and Messrs. Morris, Dunlap and Shone had been chosen, together with a committee whose duty it was to introduce the new to the older members of the church.

An informal program was carried out, in which Dr. Wells, professor of science in Beaver college, and Miss Billingsley, professor of elocution at the same institution, and Miss Jones and Mr. Blount, of this city, took part. Every number was splendid and well received by the audience.

SAYS THE DEAL IS OFF

John Rinehart Says the Pennsylvania Company Was at Fault About the Contract.

While it may be considered that the deal for the transferring of the Rinehart property on Second street to the Pennsylvania Railroad company was closed, Mr. Rinehart holds that the railroad was at fault in its part of the contract, which provided that Mr. Rinehart would transfer his property to the company last Thursday, March 27.

Not until Monday of this week did representatives of the company call for the delivery of the property, and as the company failed to take the property at the time agreed upon, Mr. Rinehart claims the deal is off so far as he is concerned. This deal was made by George A. Wassman, local agent of the C. & P.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

A New Price May Be Asked for the Making of a New Cover Dish at the Wallace & Chetwynd Plant. Pottery News.

Warehouse women's local No. 7606, American Federation of Labor, is a thing of the past, and the new local will be No. 62, N. B. of O. P. Last evening 300 members of this local met in Brotherhood hall, where they received the Brotherhood obligation conferred by National President A. S. Hughes, Secretary Duffy, Trustee Orr and William Blackmore.

It was 8:35 when the session was called to order by the president, Mrs. Jankins, and thrice was it necessary to place additional chairs in the hall. Sixty new members were received into the local at this meeting and 20 applications for membership were received. The charter of the local was closed last evening and hereafter the initiation fee will be $1.50, instead of 50 cents, as in the past.

After the charter was obtained by the local president, President Hughes made a short speech, in which he is quoted as saying that it was the largest local that was ever admitted into the Brotherhood, and that it was a pleasure seldom afforded to a national officer to confer an obligation to such a large local.

Pressers at the Wallace and Chetwynd will likely ask for more compensation for the making of a new cover dish, a part of the new dinner shape now being made there. The new dish is one of very handsome design, and by far the neatest ever turned out at the plant. The workmen claim it is much harder to make than other cover dishes, but so far have not asked for an adjustment of the price. It is customary in taking up a new shape to work upon it for several pays in order to have a clear idea as to what it is worth to turn it out.

Daniel E. McNicol, of the McNicol company, who has been in Kentucky for several days on business, returned to the city Wednesday evening. Mr. McNicol is interested in some clay deposits in that state.

James Witherow, who has been operating a cup jigger at the Union since that plant started under new management, has resigned his position. His place at the Union will be looked after by Charles Kroul.

Miss Ada Eardley, of the decorating department of the Brunt pottery, very pleasantly entertained a number of her young friends at her home on Watkinson street Wednesday evening.

Information has been received in the city that not less than $20,000 of local capital is much desired by the American Land and Development company of New York, for the purpose of operating a valuable clay deposit in

MANY ENGINEERS IN ATTENDANCE

Important Session of the Local Association, Addressed by State Examiner.

SCIENTIFIC DISCUSSIONS

Were Listened to With Marked Interest, Which Proved to Be Highly Instructive — Wellsville Engineers Also in Attendance.

Calhoun Association No. 41, of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, held an important meeting last evening in the hall in the Oyster building. Several members of the Wellsville association were present and, aside from being shown an evening's enjoyment from a social standpoint, were given much valuable information.

State Examiner E. E. Miller, of Canton, was the leading speaker of the evening, and with O. C. Pillishody, chief electrician of the Steubenville & Mingo Traction company, claimed the attention of the assembly until a late hour.

No business session was held and after the president had called for order Mr. Pillishody was introduced, who spoke intelligently and entertainingly concerning electric railway power plants.

It was claimed by the speaker that only a few successful power plants are at the present time in operation, though, he stated, that rapid strides in overcoming imperfections are being made. Concerning the generation of current he stated that this all important detail is only in its infancy.

Mr. Pillishody gave a description of the equipment of the older power plants and told what was needed to increase their capacity and put them up to the standard. He stated that high tension transmission of power would soon be in universal use, for the reason, he explained, that the current can thus be distributed for an almost unlimited distance. The voltage needed for power houses was explained in detail, as was also the manner in which the current is distributed.

In concluding his address, Mr. Pillishody spoke of the cost of operating an electric railway. He stated that lines with steep grades required the most expense to operate for the reason, the motors, now most commonly used on the cars, constantly get out of repair. He gave it as his belief that it would not be long until all cars would be equipped with induction motors, which have no commutator or brushes and which require practically no attention.

Following the applause which Mr. Pillishody's speech drew forth, the president introduced State Examiner Miller, who, in his characteristic and happy manner, made an able address in which he told of the necessary qualifications of a competent engineer.

Taking for his subject "The Mechanics of the Steam Plant," Mr. Miller, who was himself an engineer for 20 years, began by stating that the most successful mechanics were those who studied the fundamental principles of the machines operated by them. He went on to state how an engineer could, by close application to his work and by carefully watching the engines, boilers, etc., under his care, quickly command due recognition of his services from his employer.

The claim was made by Mr. Miller that he could generally tell a good engineer by the clothes he wore. He stated that greasy floors and dirty machinery always indicated to him that the man in charge was careless or incompetent. He also made the claim that by keeping machinery free from dirt or grease it was made an easy matter to discover flaws or breaks.

Sobriety, the speaker declared, was an absolute requisite in the performance of an engineer's work. He told the need of a technical training and said that engineers of today who were without this knowledge were rapidly being transplanted by others having better experience.

In closing his address Mr. Miller gave a scientific explanation of boilers, engines, safety valves, steam gauges, fly wheels, etc., which he illustrated on a blackboard. The knowledge thus conveyed to those of the spectators was of incalculable benefit and greatly appreciated.

The local association is composed of 41 members. The officers are Morris Baxter, president; Ed Cox, vice president; Robert Orrin, corresponding secretary; Milton Dunlap, recording secretary; Claybourne Gould, treasurer; Dink Herron, conductor; Con. Halderman, door keeper; trustees, M. E. Baxter, George Wilhelm and B. F. Orr.

All members of the association are first-class mechanics and among the city's best citizens. The order is in a prosperous condition and growing rapidly.

Several engineers were put through an examination yesterday afternoon by State Examiner Miller.

GIVEN A BEATING

Self-Appointed Detective of Lisbon Is Disobeyed And Whipped.

Lisbon, April 4. — (Special) — Will De Garmo, a well known character of Lisbon, who is under the delusions that he is a world famous detective, came to the mayor's office yesterday afternoon with a badly battered face and a considerable story.

He said that Ham Adams had thrown him down in the mud and severely pounded him, for no reason whatever. De Garmo had not arrested Adams, as he did not have his star with him and the offense was not committed on his beat, nor was he on duty at the time.

Adams came to the mayor later, expressing willingness to stand trial. He said De Garmo had ordered him to quit work on an engine, threatening to shoot him unless he obeyed his orders. On his refusal to quit work De Garmo was about to enforce his orders with a big stone that he had picked up. Adams says he then acted in self-defense.

De Garmo's delusion is well known, but this is the first occasion it has caused any disturbance.

FIRST CLASS ROAD IN ALL RESPECTS

Plans For the New Railway From This City to Lisbon.

RIGHT OF WAY CONTRACTS

Secured Some Time Ago Had Expired And Will Have to Be Renewed. Latest Improved Interurban Cars Promised for the Road.

While very few facts concerning the new cross-county road can be learned from officials of the East Liverpool Railway company, on account of the illness of L. W. Healy, a member of that company this morning said:

"While all the right of way has been secured, the closing of these contracts will require about a month's time. It will be remembered that about two years ago this company secured the right of way for a cross-county road, but these land contracts were for a term of one year. When the time expired and no road was built, we once more took options on rights of way, and for good. It will not require much labor to secure the final contracts, and as soon as that work is completed we will commence to secure bids for the construction of the road, which will be in operation just as soon as possible."

"To what extent is the East Liverpool Railway company interested in this road?" was asked the official.

"I am not at liberty to give out any information regarding this matter, but I can say that we have the hard work to do."

"From what source will the new road secure its power?"

"I can say that several power stations will have to be built along this road, but these we term 'boosters.' No power will be secured from this company, other than that which will be used in East Liverpool, provided these cars are operated that far."

"What about the new cars?"

"Practically nothing on this matter has been decided upon. It usually follows when such long roads are built to secure cars containing all accommodations. I feel safe in assuming that such cars will be used on this road. By accommodations I mean there will be toilet rooms, smoking compartments, and possibly wash stands. Many such cars are now in use in interurban roads, and as to the speed, on a level stretch of country these cars will be capable of making not less than a mile a minute."

Entertained Their Friends.

Misses Alice and Susie Firth very pleasantly entertained a number of friends last evening at their home on Second street, in honor of their sister, Miss Emily, who is spending her Easter vacation in the city. The decorations were pink and green. Music and games were features of the evening. About 20 young people had a delightful time. Miss Emily Firth leaves Tuesday for Wooster to resume her studies.

CHICKEN ORDINANCE

Mayor Davidson Proposes to Enforce It—Gives Warning to Owners of Fowls.

A large number of complaints have been made to the mayor the past few days from residents of different parts of the city who are troubled with chickens which are allowed to run at large.

A city ordinance forbids the owners of fowls to allow them to leave their premises, and the mayor states that any or all persons who violate the mandate may expect to be fined.

Taken in an Ambulance.

Frank Clunk, a biscuit kilnman at the Diamond, just as he was ready to start to work this morning suffered an attack of heart trouble, and had to be removed to his home in the West End in the city ambulance. His condition this afternoon was improved.

Again at Home.

Charles Mulherron, who was injured at McNicol's pottery some time ago, has returned to the city. He spent several weeks in a Cleveland hospital, and has since been at his home in Salineville.

Entertained at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kelly gave a very delightful arranged 6 o'clock dinner last evening. Covers were laid for 14, and the decorations were in pink and very tasteful.

GIVEN A BEATING

Self-Appointed Detective of Lisbon Is Disobeyed And Whipped.

Lisbon, April 4. — (Special) — Will De Garmo, a well known character of Lisbon, who is under the delusions that he is a world famous detective, came to the mayor's office yesterday afternoon with a badly battered face and a considerable story.

He said that Ham Adams had thrown him down in the mud and severely pounded him, for no reason whatever. De Garmo had not arrested Adams, as he did not have his star with him and the offense was not committed on his beat, nor was he on duty at the time.

Adams came to the mayor later, expressing willingness to stand trial. He said De Garmo had ordered him to quit work on an engine, threatening to shoot him unless he obeyed his orders. On his refusal to quit work De Garmo was about to enforce his orders with a big stone that he had picked up. Adams says he then acted in self-defense.

De Garmo's delusion is well known, but this is the first occasion it has caused any disturbance.

FIRST CLASS ROAD IN ALL RESPECTS

Plans For the New Railway From This City to Lisbon.

RIGHT OF WAY CONTRACTS

Secured Some Time Ago Had Expired And Will Have to Be Renewed. Latest Improved Interurban Cars Promised for the Road.

While very few facts concerning the new cross-county road can be learned from officials of the East Liverpool Railway company, on account of the illness of L. W. Healy, a member of that company this morning said:

"While all the right of way has been secured, the closing of these contracts will require about a month's time. It will be remembered that about two years ago this company secured the right of way for a cross-county road, but these land contracts were for a term of one year. When the time expired and no road was built, we once more took options on rights of way, and for good. It will not require much labor to secure the final contracts, and as soon as that work is completed we will commence to secure bids for the construction of the road, which will be in operation just as soon as possible."

"To what extent is the East Liverpool Railway company interested in this road?" was asked the official.

"I am not at liberty to give out any information regarding this matter, but I can say that we have the hard work to do."

"From what source will the new road secure its power?"

"I can say that several power stations will have to be built along this road, but these we term 'boosters.' No power will be secured from this company, other than that which will be used in East Liverpool, provided these cars are operated that far."

"What about the new cars?"

"Practically nothing on this matter has been decided upon. It usually follows when such long roads are built to secure cars containing all accommodations. I feel safe in assuming that such cars will be used on this road. By accommodations I mean there will be toilet rooms, smoking compartments, and possibly wash stands. Many such cars are now in use in interurban roads, and as to the speed, on a level stretch of country these cars will be capable of making not less than a mile a minute."

Entertained Their Friends.

Misses Alice and Susie Firth very pleasantly entertained a number of friends last evening at their home on Second street, in honor of their sister, Miss Emily, who is spending her Easter vacation in the city. The decorations were pink and green. Music and games were features of the evening. About 20 young people had a delightful time. Miss Emily Firth leaves Tuesday for Wooster to resume her studies.

CHICKEN ORDINANCE

Mayor Davidson Proposes to Enforce It—Gives Warning to Owners of Fowls.

A large number of complaints have been made to the mayor the past few days from residents of different parts of the city who are troubled with chickens which are allowed to run at large.

A city ordinance forbids the owners of fowls to allow them to leave their premises, and the mayor states that any or all persons who violate the mandate may expect to be fined.

Taken in an Ambulance.

Frank Clunk, a biscuit kilnman at the Diamond, just as he was ready to start to work this morning suffered an attack of heart trouble, and had to be removed to his home in the West End in the city ambulance. His condition this afternoon was improved.

Again at Home.

Charles Mulherron, who was injured at McNicol's pottery some time ago, has returned to the city. He spent several weeks in a Cleveland hospital, and has since been at his home in Salineville.

Entertained at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kelly gave a very delightful arranged 6 o'clock dinner last evening. Covers were laid for 14, and the decorations were in pink and very tasteful.

ANIMATED AND BUOYANT.

Granger and Transcontinental Railroad Stocks the Surprises of New York Market.

New York, April 4.—The Granger and Transcontinental railroad stocks developed surprising animation and buoyancy within a few minutes of Wednesday's closing dealings in stocks, and were rushed up in a sensational manner, which precipitated an eager scramble among the bears to cover, thus accentuating the rise. Previous to that time the character of the market had been much the same as that prevailing for a long time. There was a rather notable demand for St. Paul, but not greater than consistent with the recent tactics of professional pools in supporting some one leading stock for effect on the rest of the market. The general list continued neglected and irregular, with obvious profit-taking going on in some of the stocks which were strongest Wednesday or in the immediate past. The demand for Hocking Valley continued very large, carrying it up six points, the preferred rising 3¼, Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling, 6½; Kanawha and Michigan, 2¼, and Ann Arbor preferred, 4. These stocks seemed to be influenced in sympathy. There was a long list of gain srunning from was a long list of gains running from simply recoveries from depression of Wednesday. At the same time Amalgamated Copper, Colorado Fuel, United States Leather preferred and the minor steel stocks were rather acutely depressed by realizing sales. When St. Paul reached the later stages of its advance it encountered blocks of offerings running up 7,000 shares, but rose steadily through them all to 169⅜. The stock closed practically at the top, with a gain of 4 points. Chicago and Northwestern shot up 7¼, the preferred 11¼, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha 11 and the preferred 4. It was not until within 15 minutes of the close that these movements produced any appreciable effect on the general market.

The bond market was not very active, but there was a well-distributed demand. Total sales, par value, $3 620,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

China Finally Waking Up.

Washington, April 4.—The state department made public copies of two Chinese edicts which were sent by United States Minister Conger at Pekin under date of Feb. 6. The first edict removes the prohibition of intermarriage between Manchus and Chinese, and bids Chinese officials and gentry to persuade Chinese women to do away with the old custom of foot-binding. The other edict contemplates the sending abroad of competent Chinamen to study western methods in order to extend the international relations of the empire.

Threaten to Move Plant.

Youngstown, O., April 4.—The 300 employes on strike at the local plant of the American Bridge company were discharged and paid off yesterday The men were informed that unless the strike was settled the company would dismantle the plant and move it elsewhere. The strike was the result of the management's filling the places of 25 boy rivet-heaters who went on strike Monday for higher wages.

Mrs. Haines May Go Abroad.

AN ABUSE OF POWER.

Justice Gaynor's Reason for Denying Injunction Against Strikers.

New York, April 4.—Justice Gaynor, in the supreme court, Brooklyn, denied an injunction asked for by Frank Herzog and Louis Erb, bookbinders, to restrain J. L. Fitzgerald and other strikers from patrolling and picketing streets in the vicinity of the plaintiff's place of business. Justice Gaynor said:

"This is not a case for an injunction in advance of a trial. No violence has been done to persons or property. Capital and labor have an equal right to organize, as is now recognized by all sensible people. The courts should not interfere except in a case of obvious necessity. When courts and judges of first instance have gone beyond this, it has been an abuse of power."

ANIMATED AND BUOYANT.

Granger and Transcontinental Railroad Stocks the Surprises of New York Market.

New York, April 4.—The Granger and Transcontinental railroad stocks developed surprising animation and buoyancy within a few minutes of Wednesday's closing dealings in stocks, and were rushed up in a sensational manner, which precipitated an eager scramble among the bears to cover, thus accentuating the rise. Previous to that time the character of the market had been much the same as that prevailing for a long time. There was a rather notable demand for St. Paul, but not greater than consistent with the recent tactics of professional pools in supporting some one leading stock for effect on the rest of the market. The general list continued neglected and irregular, with obvious profit-taking going on in some of the stocks which were strongest Wednesday or in the immediate past. The demand for Hocking Valley continued very large, carrying it up six points, the preferred rising 3¼, Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling, 6½; Kanawha and Michigan, 2¼, and Ann Arbor preferred, 4. These stocks seemed to be influenced in sympathy. There was a long list of gain srunning from was a long list of gains running from simply recoveries from depression of Wednesday. At the same time Amalgamated Copper, Colorado Fuel, United States Leather preferred and the minor steel stocks were rather acutely depressed by realizing sales. When St. Paul reached the later stages of its advance it encountered blocks of offerings running up 7,000 shares, but rose steadily through them all to 169⅜. The stock closed practically at the top, with a gain of 4 points. Chicago and Northwestern shot up 7¼, the preferred 11¼, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha 11 and the preferred 4. It was not until within 15 minutes of the close that these movements produced any appreciable effect on the general market.

The bond market was not very active, but there was a well-distributed demand. Total sales, par value, $3 620,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

China Finally Waking Up.

Washington, April 4.—The state department made public copies of two Chinese edicts which were sent by United States Minister Conger at Pekin under date of Feb. 6. The first edict removes the prohibition of intermarriage between Manchus and Chinese, and bids Chinese officials and gentry to persuade Chinese women to do away with the old custom of foot-binding. The other edict contemplates the sending abroad of competent Chinamen to study western methods in order to extend the international relations of the empire.

Youngstown, O., April 4.—The 300 employes on strike at the local plant of the American Bridge company were discharged and paid off yesterday The men were informed that unless the strike was settled the company would dismantle the plant and move it elsewhere. AN ABUSE OF POWER.

Justice Gaynor's Reason for Denying Injunction Against Strikers.

New York, April 4.—Justice Gaynor, in the supreme court, Brooklyn, denied an injunction asked for by Frank Herzog and Louis Erb, bookbinders, to restrain J. L. Fitzgerald and other strikers from patrolling and picketing streets in the vicinity of the plaintiff's place of business. Justice Gaynor said:

"This is not a case for an injunction in advance of a trial. No violence has been done to persons or property. Capital and labor have an equal right to organize, as is now recognized by all sensible people. The courts should not interfere except in a case of obvious necessity. When courts and judges of first instance have gone beyond this, it has been an abuse of power."

Attorney General Elkin's Opinion on the Assignment of Claims for Debt.

PENALTY FOR THE ASSIGNORS.

Debtors Against Whom Claims Are Pressed for Payment May Then Recover From Their Original Creditors—Warning to Merchants.

Harrisburg, April 4.—Attorney General Elkin gave as his legal opinion that under the act of 1887, relating to the assignment of claims, if the West Virginia claim agency presses the writs of attachment of wages against railroaders and compels the railroad companies to pay the debt, the railroaders may proceed against the merchants or other creditors making assignment of their claims, and, under the law, recover from them as a penalty the full amount of debt, interest and costs so collected.

Some time ago B. Frank Snavely, C. A. Johnson and other employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, wishing to ascertain what legal right the West Virginia collection agency had to hold up the wages of railroad employes in this city, Altoona and other points along the Pennsylvania line, for debt, sent a letter to Attorney General Elkin, stating the case and asking his opinion on the subject. Mr. Elkin concludes his opinion as follows:

"This whole system of making collections is vicious, savors of sharp practice, and should not be encouraged. It seems to me that when our merchants and other creditors fully understand the true character of the suits instituted, and the penalty which they must pay in case such are pressed against them, they will refrain from making assignments of claims for this purpose."

SWIFT JUSTICE FOR LANE.

Murderous Butler's Trial Will Begin and End Today.

Philadelphia, April 4.—Two indictments for murder were returned late yesterday afternoon by the grand jury against William H. Lane, the colored butler, who on Tuesday killed Ella Jarden, otherwise known as Mrs. Ella J. Furbush, and her 10-year-old daughter, Madeline, and probably fatally shot the 7-year-old child, Eloise, for the purpose of robbery. The court immediately assigned counsel to legally defend him, and his trial will begin and end today. Before the grand jury Lane pleaded guilty to the two charges, which makes it certain that he will be convicted of murder in the first degree today.

It is the intention of the district attorney to immediately send the case to the governor, who under the law fixes the date of the execution of capital cases at not less than 30 days from the date a prisoner is sentenced to death. It is expected that the governor will fix the date of the execution of Lane as early as the law will permit. If the intentions of the officers of the law are carried out, it will be the quickest case of conviction and execution of the sentence of death in the annals of capital cases in this state.

The condition of the child Eloise is critical.

Washington, April 4.—The house committee on labor yesterday ordered a favorable report on the 8-hour bill, so called, providing that in every contract for work for the government it shall be specified that the work is to be done on an eight-hour basis. This measure has been strongly supported by labor organizations and opposed by the large armor, shipbuilding, ordnance and other concerns having contracts with the government.

Men Won't Push Cars.

Altoona, Pa., April 4.—The cause of the strike of the 10,000 miners of the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron Company was the demand of the men that mules be used to haul mine cars into and out of the mine, instead of compelling the men to move the cars. Yesterday General Manager L. W. Robinson proposed to supply mules to haul loaded cars, but insisted that the men must push empty cars. A miners' official said the proposition would be rejected.

Turtle Eggs.

Turtle eggs are an acquired taste with most people, although they are not so with bears. They have a rough, yellow yolk and a white like any other egg, but you can cook them for a year and the white part will remain liquid. Notice a curious dimple in the side of each one. If you squeeze it out, the dimple appears on the other side, and you can never get hold of a turtle egg which hasn't got a dimple in it.

Turtle Eggs.

Turtle eggs are an acquired taste with most people, although they are not so with bears. They have a rough, yellow yolk and a white like any other egg, but you can cook them for a year and the white part will remain liquid. Notice a curious dimple in the side of each one. If you squeeze it out, the dimple appears on the other side, and you can never get hold of a turtle egg which hasn't got a dimple in it.

Interest in the approaching election in this city ought to be much deeper and more general than it appears to be on the surface. Of course it is settled that the whole Republican ticket, and none of the Democrats' half-ticket, is to be elected. But there are greater issues than those of party to be decided—questions that interest every citizen, whatever his political faith. Of prime importance is the proposal to issue $20,000 of bonds to provide additional school room for the city. There can be no question that the proposed new school building is badly needed. Indeed, far more than the $20,000 proposed for the Bradshaw addition could be expended wisely and to great advantage for the present and future good of the city. But it is absolutely essential that additional accommodations should be provided immediately, and this amount will afford the needed relief. Good citizens do not want to see the schools suffer or be hampered for lack of room. The school bond proposition should carry by a large majority. Another question of moment to be decided next Monday is whether the registration laws, applicable in larger cities of the state, shall be adopted in East Liverpool. As with the bonds, no politics are involved in this question. Although the Republicans are sponsors for the bill which lately passed the legislature, their interest in registration is no greater than that of the minority parties. Every citizen who favors honest elections and a pure ballot should give hearty support to any measure calculated as this one is, to insure those results. Much has been said of the expense of putting the system in operation, but it would be trivial, compared with the benefits. The expense, when divided up, will be so small that nobody will feet it. By all means the city should vote for registration and to have all elections above suspicion.

The government is taking such energetic measures to educate the people on the subject of good roads that good results ought to follow. Martin Dodge, director of the division of road inquiry of the agriculture department, has just returned from a trip of 8,000 miles through the south, where he appears to have caused a genuine awakening on the subject of road building. Not only did the railroads furnish him free transportation, but interested manufacturers gave him machinery and material free of charge. Sample roads, a mile or so in length, were constructed in 20 different places. An interstate good roads convention was held at Charlottesville, Va., attended by many notable men, and presided over by Mr. Dodge. Unbounded enthusiasm on the subject appears to have been aroused and popular eagerness to gain information as to the best methods of road-building. Agriculture and every class of business will be benefited, if the southern expedition bears the fruit expected. It would not be a bad idea to bring the proper influence to bear and have Uncle Sam send a road expert to Columbiana county to give a few lessons. Mr. Dodge, it is reported, is about to visit Medina county on a similar mission. If the roads of Medina are in greater need of reform than those in this county, that section of the state is to be pitied.

It is proposed in a bill before congress to reprint all $1, $2 and $5 treasury notes, coin or silver certificates now in circulation and have the faces provided with blank lines for conversion into postal checks when desired. This would be the ordinary money of the day. Then when one wishes to send money by mail, say $2, he takes such a bill, writes on its face the name and address of the person or firm to whom it is to go, affixes a stamp, cancelling the stamp with his initials and date and signs his name on the back. The bill is thus transformed into a personal check on the government, good at the postoffice to which it is sent. Such a system would be of great use in rural communities and a public convenience. It would also be of vast benefit to business firms who do a mail business. The plan has received the approval of the postal authorities and of many prominent newspapers, besides being warmly commended by commercial men.

From all indications this section of Ohio, as well as that across the river in West Virginia, is soon to witness railroad building otherwise than on paper. This will be a refreshing novelty, and when the man with the pick appears he will be as welcome as the flowers in spring.

A London paper complains that "American influence pervades the whole of Europe." What's the odds? It's a healthy influence.

AT THE THEATER

Denman Thompson's "Our New Minister" comes back to the Grand on Monday, April 7. Rarely, if ever, did a play catch the fancy of theatergoers as did this latest production of the author of the "Old Homestead," for ever since its presentation a few weeks ago it has been the one topic of conversation in homes, on the street cars, in stores and on the streets. Don't miss it.

A long laugh set in smiles to the "Katzenjammer Kids" with the Blondells, is the attraction to appear at the Grand Tuesday evening, April 8. It is presented by clever comedians, dashing soubrettes and a large chorus of pretty girls who can sing and dance and make the hours merry.

Not a Practical Philanthropist.

One day last winter when it was very cold a richly dressed woman stopped and gazed sternly at an ice wagon that was drawn up beside the curb on Walnut street, near Fifteenth. She stood there for ten minutes. Then the iceman came out of a certain house, and she said to him, "Driver, why don't you blanket your horses?"

"Because, lady, the kump'ny don't furnish me no blankets," said the man.

"Then," exclaimed the woman, "you should cover them with your coat."

"All right, ma'am," said the driver, smiling. "You gimme your coat for the near hoss, an I'll put mine on the off one."

The woman, whose coat was of sealskin, could not think of a good retort to this, and she walked away in silence.—Philadelphia Record.

Twain and the Printer.

Mary Twain once had a trying experience with a compositor, one of those conscientious compositors who not only know, but know that they know. According to a writer in Harper's Weekly, Mr. Clemens had received from his publishers the proofs of a story which he considered as funny as anything he had ever written, but on reading the proofs he dismally discovered that the fun had been carefully eliminated. Mr. Clemens returned the proofs, congratulating the compositor upon having consumed "only one week in making sense of a story which he himself required two weeks to make nonsense of!"

Their Loss Our Gain.

"Women have no sense of humor," said he.

"That is a dispensation of Providence for which the men should be truly thankful," she retorted. "Providence deprived women of a sense of humor that they might not notice how preposterously absurd the men are when they're in love."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

ODD CLASSIFICATION.

The Way a Carload of Tramps Was Designated In Mexico.

In Mexico the billing of railroad freight requires a knowledge and precision which can only be attained by years of practice. This is due to the peculiar classification of various articles and the different rates of customs duties. A case recently occurred which severely taxed the ingenuity of the station agent, although he finally succeeded in meeting all requirements.

The town was overrun with tramps, and the council determined that steps must be taken to rid the city of them. It was finally decided to round them up and ship them out of the country. It would be too expensive to purchase tickets, so they concluded to hire stock cars and ship their tramps as freight.

The cars were procured, and by the aid of the police the tramps were gathered, but then the question arose as to how the shipment should be designated on the bill of lading.

The term "persons" could not be used, as it would conflict with the state law relative to proper accommodations for the traveling public, and it would also be in violation of the company's rules governing the rates of passenger traffic. "Marketable commodities" would not do, as that would subject the carload to a heavy duty upon crossing the tariff zone. Again they would have to be classified as "perishable" or the dispatcher might order the car sidetracked along the line.

But fortunately there is a customs law which exempts certain kinds of curiosities from duty and so, after much consideration, the tramps were billed and forwarded as so many hundredweight of "perishable curiosities—unfit to eat."

How New York Sleeps.

New York is a city of infinite variety. There are those who have beds without sleep and those who sleep without beds. Three thousand of her winter residents slumber in the cradles of the canal barges that come each year from the canals of New York state, from the great lakes and Lake Champlain to spend the winter months moored in New York harbor. In the tenement districts a man, his wife and his four or six or eight or more children sleep in a single room, and one who goes about the city finds many a device for slumber and repose. On Washington street, on the west side, where the Turks, the Greeks, the Assyrians and the Egyptians live near neighbors to a colony of Irish, is a queer little oriental hotel on the top floor of a tenement.—Leslie's Weekly.

Confederate Camp Flags.

The Confederate stars and bars were in 1863 supplemented by the camp flag. This was in size and shape like the other, except that it was white, with no stripes, and the battleflag in the upper corner next the staff. It was found deficient in actual service in that, displaying so much white, it was sometimes apt to be mistaken for a flag of truce, and on Feb. 24, 1865, it gave place to the last flag of the Confederacy, the outer half being a red vertical bar. Appearing so late in the war, it was not so familiar as the others—in fact, it was comparatively little known.

Rome's Churches.

The guidebooks are responsible for the popular impression that there are 365 churches in Rome, one for every day in the year, but that is a mistake. The exact number is 352, including the four great basilicas outside the walls. Besides these there are about 918 chapels connected with monasteries, nunneries, schools and private palaces and a large number of shrines erected by individuals in different parts of the city to fulfill vows or show gratitude for deliverance from peril or sickness. There are 68 monastic establishments, 42 for monks and 26 for nuns.

The Umbrella Conscience.

A correspondent contributes another to the series of umbrella myths. During a smart shower a gentleman who was unprovided hurriedly overtook an acquaintance whom he chanced to see some distance ahead of him carrying an umbrella, intending to ask if he might be permitted to share its shelter. He was almost up to him, when suddenly the other turned around and with a guilty look thrust it into his hands and vanished.—London Globe.

AT THE THEATER

Denman Thompson's "Our New Minister" comes back to the Grand on Monday, April 7. Rarely, if ever, did a play catch the fancy of theatergoers as did this latest production of the author of the "Old Homestead," for ever since its presentation a few weeks ago it has been the one topic of conversation in homes, on the street cars, in stores and on the streets. Don't miss it.

A long laugh set in smiles to the "Katzenjammer Kids" with the Blondells, is the attraction to appear at the Grand Tuesday evening, April 8. It is presented by clever comedians, dashing soubrettes and a large chorus of pretty girls who can sing and dance and make the hours merry.

Not a Practical Philanthropist.

One day last winter when it was very cold a richly dressed woman stopped and gazed sternly at an ice wagon that was drawn up beside the curb on Walnut street, near Fifteenth. She stood there for ten minutes. Then the iceman came out of a certain house, and she said to him, "Driver, why don't you blanket your horses?"

"Because, lady, the kump'ny don't furnish me no blankets," said the man.

"Then," exclaimed the woman, "you should cover them with your coat."

"All right, ma'am," said the driver, smiling. "You gimme your coat for the near hoss, an I'll put mine on the off one."

The woman, whose coat was of sealskin, could not think of a good retort to this, and she walked away in silence.—Philadelphia Record.

Twain and the Printer.

Mary Twain once had a trying experience with a compositor, one of those conscientious compositors who not only know, but know that they know. According to a writer in Harper's Weekly, Mr. Clemens had received from his publishers the proofs of a story which he considered as funny as anything he had ever written, but on reading the proofs he dismally discovered that the fun had been carefully eliminated. Mr. Clemens returned the proofs, congratulating the compositor upon having consumed "only one week in making sense of a story which he himself required two weeks to make nonsense of!"

ODD CLASSIFICATION.

The Way a Carload of Tramps Was Designated In Mexico.

In Mexico the billing of railroad freight requires a knowledge and precision which can only be attained by years of practice. This is due to the peculiar classification of various articles and the different rates of customs duties. A case recently occurred which severely taxed the ingenuity of the station agent, although he finally succeeded in meeting all requirements.

The town was overrun with tramps, and the council determined that steps must be taken to rid the city of them. It was finally decided to round them up and ship them out of the country. It would be too expensive to purchase tickets, so they concluded to hire stock cars and ship their tramps as freight.

The cars were procured, and by the aid of the police the tramps were gathered, but then the question arose as to how the shipment should be designated on the bill of lading.

The term "persons" could not be used, as it would conflict with the state law relative to proper accommodations for the traveling public, and it would also be in violation of the company's rules governing the rates of passenger traffic. "Marketable commodities" would not do, as that would subject the carload to a heavy duty upon crossing the tariff zone. Again they would have to be classified as "perishable" or the dispatcher might order the car sidetracked along the line.

But fortunately there is a customs law which exempts certain kinds of curiosities from duty, and so, after much consideration, the tramps were billed and forwarded as so many hundredweight of "perishable curiosities—unfit to eat."

How New York Sleeps.

New York is a city of infinite variety. There are those who have beds without sleep and those who sleep without beds. Three thousand of her winter residents slumber in the cradles of the canal barges that come each year from the canals of New York state, from the great lakes and Lake Champlain to spend the winter months moored in New York harbor. In the tenement districts a man, his wife and his four or six or eight or more children sleep in a single room, and one who goes about the city finds many a device for slumber and repose. On Washington street, on the west side, where the Turks, the Greeks, the Assyrians and the Egyptians live near neighbors to a colony of Irish, is a queer little oriental hotel on the top floor of a tenement.—Leslie's Weekly.

Confederate Camp Flags.

The Confederate stars and bars were in 1863 supplemented by the camp flag. This was in size and shape like the other, except that it was white, with no stripes, and the battleflag in the upper corner next the staff. It was found deficient in actual service in that, displaying so much white, it was sometimes apt to be mistaken for a flag of truce, and on Feb. 24, 1865, it gave place to the last flag of the Confederacy, the outer half being a red vertical bar. Appearing so late in the war, it was not so familiar as the others—in fact, it was comparatively little known.

Rome's Churches.

The guidebooks are responsible for the popular impression that there are 365 churches in Rome, one for every day in the year, but that is a mistake. The exact number is 352, including the four great basilicas outside the walls. Besides these there are about 918 chapels connected with monasteries, nunneries, schools and private palaces and a large number of shrines erected by individuals in different parts of the city to fulfill vows or show gratitude for deliverance from peril or sickness. There are 68 monastic establishments, 42 for monks and 26 for nuns.

The Umbrella Conscience.

A correspondent contributes another to the series of umbrella myths. During a smart shower a gentleman who was unprovided hurriedly overtook an acquaintance whom he chanced to see some distance ahead of him carrying an umbrella, intending to ask if he might be permitted to share its shelter. He was almost up to him, when suddenly the other turned around and with a guilty look thrust it into his hands and vanished.—London Globe.

PROTESTS ARE MADE

By Business Men Against the Torn Up Condition of Clark Avenue.

Clark avenue residents are filing protests galore with the city councilmen as a result of the torn up condition of the avenue left so by the street railway company. The protests are in vain, as the company was authorized by council to finish the laying of the track when most convenient.

According to the franchise the track was to be completed by April 1. Owing to the plan of relaying of the water main by the company no specific date was set. Manager Healy has flatly refused to dig the trench for the water main, and it is the opinion of the council that he should either start digging immediately or finish laying the track and thereby rid the avenue of obstructing piles of dirt and rocks. Business men who have occasion to deliver merchandise, etc., in the West End are also protesting.

COUNTY TO RAISE BRIDGE

Over Little Yellow Creek, Provided the City Makes the Approaches.

The county bridge over Little Yellow creek will be raised by the county commissioners, providing the city council will agree to make the approach at each end of the bridge and also assume all responsibility that may be incurred in establishing a new grade.

A letter to that effect was received from the commissioners by E. G. Whitacre, a member of council, yesterday. This action of the commissioners may not be sanctioned by the councilmen, who contend that the bridge belongs to the county and that the county should bear all the expense of raising it.

At the next regular meeting of the council the proposition will be considered and a reply forwarded to the commissioners.

EDUCATING MINERS

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO AID IN THE WORK.

A Business of Vast Importance—Lottery Idea Eliminated From It.

A bill now pending in congress will doubtless prove of great interest to miners and investors in mining property. The bill provides for the application of a portion of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands to the endowment, support and maintenance of schools or department of mines and mining in the several states and territories in connection with the colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanical arts, established in accordance with the provisions of an act of congress approved July 2, 1862.

This bill with some modifications concerning Colorado, should be passed. In this state we have a school of mines which has acquired a reputation scarcely second to any similar institution in the world, and the placing of the appropriation in the agricultural college would therefore be unnecessary, but the addition of such an appropriation to the funds of the school of mines would greatly enlarge the scope of its usefulness. The object of all men interested in mining should be to eliminate the lottery idea from the public mind, and this can only be done by the demonstration of the real condition of the industry at the present time which will follow the passage of this bill. While dissemination of the facts will teach the people of the country that mining is a business, and the more thorough the facilities for the education of mining engineers the greater will be the diffusion of this truth.

The time has passed when all mining was regarded as gambling and miners as confidence men, and anything which has a tendency toeliminate the last vestige of misapprehension regarding its real status would be welcomed, and cannot fail to benefit an industry which during the past year added more than $1,300,000,000 to the resources of the nation.—Ores and Metals.

PERFUMES AND HEALTH.

How Flower Scents May Be Obtained in Three Ways.

Pure violet essence is said to be especially suitable to nervous people, but it must be obtained from the flowers themselves, not from the chemical imitations. Chemically derived perfumes are irritant, poisonous even, to persons of especially sensitive constitution.

True flower scents are obtained in three ways—first, by spreading fresh blossoms upon glass thickly smeared with pure grease, letting them stand in the sun and as they wilt replacing them until the grease is as fragrant as the flowers; second, by repeatedly infusing fresh petals in oil, and, third, by infusing them in ether, which is then distilled to a dry solid.

As this solid sells for about $250 an ounce it is easy to understand why the ether process, though far and away the best, is not commonly used. But the scented grease and the essences made by steeping it in pure spirit are never cheap. After all the scent possible has been extracted from the grease it is still fragrant enough to make the very finest perfumed soap.

All the citrine scents, bergamot, neroli, orange flower water, are refreshing and in a degree stimulating if properly prepared. To make a lasting perfume some animal base is essential—musk, civet or ambergris.

THE TAX ASSESSMENT

AGAIN UP IN CHESTER COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

Mr. Wetzel Induces the Solons to Reconsider Acceptance of County Valuation.

Following an impromptu speech made by Christian Wetzel in regard to the advisability of appointing a town assessor, before the Chester councilmen met last evening, debates overflowing with criticism and suggestions were made in the meeting. Mr. Wetzel contended that an assessor should be appointed. In part he said:

"My conclusions in the matter have been brought about by the many protests of the citizens. According to the state law the city council is compelled to appoint an assessor. I was so informed recently, and as I never was in favor of the county assessor doing the work, I want to make a motion that we either appoint an assessor or instruct the city recorder to accompany the county assessor when he makes his canvass. The assessment, as now in vogue, is not fair, to say the least. From personal experience I know this.

"My property is assessed at nearly $200 per lot and property adjoining it of the same value is assessed at only $6. This condition of affairs is not confined to my lots alone, but is prevalent over the entire city. I know of one man who owns 200 lots, all of which are assessed at $6, when it is conceded by everyone that those lots are worth $150 or more."

Each member of the council expressed his views in regard to the question and not a few daggers were thrown during the debates. After an hour's wrangling Mr. Wetzel made a motion that council reconsider the motion passed at a previous meeting ordering city recorder to take a copy of the county assessor's assessment.

Mr. Mercer made a second to the motion and when put to a vote it was carried, Hough, Wells, Wetzel and Mercer voting "yea" and Shrader, Riley and Johnson voting "no."

A representative of the Bell telephone company was present at the meeting and stated that the company would not accept the franchise as prepared by council. The objection to the franchise lies in the fact that the company does not think it can furnish two phones for the use of Chester officials. The councilmen of one accord are determined that the franchise will not be in the least altered.

Street Commissioner Severs was given an order on the city treasury for $15.35 and the East Liverrool Potteries Company an order for $30. After other business of minor importance, council adjurned, to meet upon call of the president.

SEEKS $2,500

For Damage to His Property By Building Railroad In Chester.

The case of W. L. Smith, of Chester, against the Pennsylvania railroad company, was up before the circuit court at New Cumberland yesterday in consequence of which a large number of Chester people were summoned as witnesses. Among the number were Councilmen, Johnston and Riley, Constable Hiram Allison and Alex Pugh.

The case is the outcome of the railroad company running its tracks through Smith's property, below Third street, without his consent. He sues for $2,500 damages.

The plaintiff was given a verdict for $256. It is said that Mr. Smith will now enter suit against the company on several other charges.

By Business Men Against the Torn Up Condition of Clark Avenue.

Clark avenue residents are filing protests galore with the city councilmen as a result of the torn up condition of the avenue left so by the street railway company. The protests are in vain, as the company was authorized by council to finish the laying of the track when most convenient.

According to the franchise the track was to be completed by April 1. Owing to the plan of relaying of the water main by the company no specific date was set. Manager Healy has flatly refused to dig the trench for the water main, and it is the opinion of the council that he should either start digging immediately or finish laying the track and thereby rid the avenue of obstructing piles of dirt and rocks. Business men who have occasion to deliver merchandise, etc., in the West End are also protesting.

COUNTY TO RAISE BRIDGE

Over Little Yellow Creek, Provided the City Makes the Approaches.

The county bridge over Little Yellow creek will be raised by the county commissioners, providing the city council will agree to make the approach at each end of the bridge and also assume all responsibility that may be incurred in establishing a new grade.

A letter to that effect was received from the commissioners by E. G. Whitacre, a member of council, yesterday. This action of the commissioners may not be sanctioned by the councilmen, who contend that the bridge belongs to the county and that the county should bear all the expense of raising it.

At the next regular meeting of the council the proposition will be considered and a reply forwarded to the commissioners.

The world could not get along today without iron and copper. The entire loss of all the gold and silver in the world would not be nearly so serious as would be a sudden exhaustion of all the iron and copper, since iron is used for all purposes of construction, and copper is an absolute requisite in the use of electricity to the enormous extent which now obtains.

EDUCATING MINERS

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO AID IN THE WORK.

A Business of Vast Importance—Lottery Idea Eliminated From It.

A bill now pending in congress will doubtless prove of great interest to miners and investors in mining property. The bill provides for the application of a portion of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands to the endowment, support and maintenance of schools or department of mines and mining in the several states and territories in connection with the colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanical arts, established in accordance with the provisions of an act of congress approved July 2, 1862.

This bill with some modifications concerning Colorado, should be passed. In this state we have a school of mines which has acquired a reputation scarcely second to any similar institution in the world, and the placing of the appropriation in the agricultural college would therefore be unnecessary, but the addition of such an appropriation to the funds of the school of mines would greatly enlarge the scope of its usefulness. The object of all men interested in mining should be to eliminate the lottery idea from the public mind, and this can only be done by the demonstration of the real condition of the industry at the present time which will follow the passage of this bill. While dissemination of the facts will teach the people of the country that mining is a business, and the more thorough the facilities for the education of mining engineers the greater will be the diffusion of this truth.

The time has passed when all mining was regarded as gambling and miners as confidence men, and anything which has a tendency toeliminate the last vestige of misapprehension regarding its real status would be welcomed, and cannot fail to benefit an industry which during the past year added more than $1,300,000,000 to the resources of the nation.—Ores and Metals.

PERFUMES AND HEALTH.

How Flower Scents May Be Obtained in Three Ways.

Pure violet essence is said to be especially suitable to nervous people, but it must be obtained from the flowers themselves, not from the chemical imitations. Chemically derived perfumes are irritant, poisonous even, to persons of especially sensitive constitution.

True flower scents are obtained in three ways—first, by spreading fresh blossoms upon glass thickly smeared with pure grease, letting them stand in the sun and as they wilt replacing them until the grease is as fragrant as the flowers; second, by repeatedly infusing fresh petals in oil, and, third, by infusing them in ether, which is then distilled to a dry solid.

As this solid sells for about $250 an ounce it is easy to understand why the ether process, though far and away the best, is not commonly used. But the scented grease and the essences made by steeping it in pure spirit are never cheap. After all the scent possible has been extracted from the grease it is still fragrant enough to make the very finest perfumed soap.

All the citrine scents, bergamot, neroli, orange flower water, are refreshing and in a degree stimulating if properly prepared. To make a lasting perfume some animal base is essential—musk, civet or ambergris.

THE TAX ASSESSMENT

AGAIN UP IN CHESTER COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

Mr. Wetzel Induces the Solons to Reconsider Acceptance of County Valuation.

Following an impromptu speech made by Christian Wetzel in regard to the advisability of appointing a town assessor, before the Chester councilmen met last evening, debates overflowing with criticism and suggestions were made in the meeting. Mr. Wetzel contended that an assessor should be appointed. In part he said:

"My conclusions in the matter have been brought about by the many protests of the citizens. According to the state law the city council is compelled to appoint an assessor. I was so informed recently, and as I never was in favor of the county assessor doing the work, I want to make a motion that we either appoint an assessor or instruct the city recorder to accompany the county assessor when he makes his canvass. The assessment, as now in vogue, is not fair, to say the least. From personal experience I know this.

"My property is assessed at nearly $200 per lot and property adjoining it of the same value is assessed at only $6. This condition of affairs is not confined to my lots alone, but is prevalent over the entire city. I know of one man who owns 200 lots, all of which are assessed at $6, when it is conceded by everyone that those lots are worth $150 or more."

Each member of the cooncil expressed his views in regard to the question and not a few daggers were thrown during the debates. After an hour's wrangling Mr. Wetzel made a motion that council reconsider the motion passed at a previous meeting ordering city recorder to take a copy of the county assessor's assessment.

Mr. Mercer made a second to the motion and when put to a vote it was carried, Hough, Wells, Wetzel and Mercer voting "yea" and Shrader, Riley and Johnson voting "no."

A representative of the Bell telephone company was present at the meeting and stated that the company would not accept the franchise as prepared by council. The objection to the franchise lies in the fact that the company does not think it can furnish two phones for the use of Chester officials. The councilmen of one accord are determined that the franchise will not be in the least altered.

Street Commissioner Severs was given an order on the city treasury for $15.35 and the East Liverrool Potteries Company an order for $30. After other business of minor importance, council adjurned, to meet upon call of the president.

SEEKS $2,500

For Damage to His Property By Building Railroad In Chester.

The case of W. L. Smith, of Chester, against the Pennsylvania railroad company, was up before the circuit court at New Cumberland yesterday in consequence of which a large number of Chester people were summoned as witnesses. Among the number were Councilmen, Johnston and Riley, Constable Hiram Allison and Alex Pugh.

The case is the outcome of the railroad company running its tracks through Smith's property, below Third street, without his consent. He sues for $2,500 damages.

The plaintiff was given a verdict for $256. It is said that Mr. Smith will now enter suit against the company on several other charges.

BRUSH IS THE BOSS.

Cincinnati Magnate Chairman of Executive Committee That Will Rule League.

SEASON WILL OPEN APRIL 17.

Old Organization Decides to Make Strenuous War on the American. Spalding Ball Adopted—Umpires Appointed.

New York, April 4.—The National League baseball magnates were in session long after midnight. N. E Young gave out the information that it was decided to run the league this year without a president. The affairs, instead, will be managed by an executive committee composed of James Hart, of Chicago, A. H. Soden, of Boston, and John T. Brush, of Cincinnati. Mr. Brush will be chairman He said last night the season would start April 17. Pittsburg will open at St. Louis and Chicago at Cincinnati.

The magnates last evening received a telegram from W. C. Temple, of Pittsburg, declining the position as president of the league, offered him Wednesday. Mr. Temple declined on account of pressure of private affairs. He is at present in Florida.

A playing schedule was adopted, but was not made public in full. It will probably be given out today.. N. F. Young handed in his resignation as president of the league and was then elected secretary and treasurer. The Spalding ball was adopted for league play during the coming season. It was decided that the National League magnates will make strenuous war against the American men. They will make a fight to get all players back that have "jumped" to the American League by paying big money for them.

Mr. Young announced the following appointments of umpires for the coming season: Robert Emslie, "Hank" O'Day, Tom Brown and Joseph Cantillon. An appointment was offered to Thomas Lynch, but he refused it.

CHRISTMAS TOUCHED HANSEN.

Attorney Loaned Negotiator $800, Which Has Not Been Repaid.

Washington, April 4.—Before the house committee investigating the Danish West Indies scandal, yesterday, appeared Carl Fischer-Hansen, who was to be the attorney for Captain Christmas in the alleged negotiations between Denmark and the United States. He was willing to act as attorney for the Danish government, he said, but believed that Christmas had lied to him. He said no member of congress had ever been improperly approached in the matter. The inquiry took on a ludicrous aspect when Hansen declared he had never received anything from Christmas, but had loaned the latter $800 when he was hard up, and the sum had never been repaid. Neils Gron made a brief supplementary statement, saying his sole mission was to place the facts before congress and the public, not to make bribery charges; he was desirous of saving the honor of two countries. "A glorious mission," remarked Chairman Dalzell. The committee then adjourned until Monday.

Many Dupes Responded.

Washington, April 4.—The civil service commission is engaged in running down a man who signed himself Albert O. Steffens, "Secretary of the board of civil service commission, New York branch," and advertised in a number of papers in this country and Germany for persons to fill positions with the "land surveyors of Geographical company at Washington," guaranteeing a salary of $2.50 a day, free transportation to and from their homes and free rations. The responses ran into the thousands. A woman is said to be implicated with him.

Got Charter Through Error.

Harrisburg, April 4.—Judge Weiss rendered a decision ousting the Northern Cambria Street Railway company, which was granted a charter March 1, 1901. In the quo warranto proceedings it was charged that this company had been granted a charter after another company had previously applied and complied with all the requirements of the law. It was also stated that the two applications by companies of the same name led to the error which resulted in the second one receiving the charter.

WHERE IS THE BURGLAR?

TRAINING A RIDING HORSE.

The Master Made Good His Assertion as to What He Could Do.

"Yes," said the riding master, "I have to be a horse trainer as well as a riding master. In fact, I couldn't very well be the second without being the first. I always have horses in my school stables here that are sent to me to train for my pupils. One came this morning, and if you have the time to spare I will show you how I give the first lesson in obedience."

The master then ordered one of his men to bring the horse out into the "school," a great oblong space, covered with sawdust and inclosed and roofed. The horse was a fine, spirited animal, with an intelligent and kindly eye, and the master said at once that he would be a tractable and teachable subject, explaining that he had not yet had a chance to "make his acquaintance."

"Now," said he, "you must remember that this horse has never seen me before and that I am, therefore, a perfect stranger to him, and yet I think I can establish between him and myself so good a feeling that in five minutes' time he will follow me all about the school at a word of command—perhaps without a command. Let us see."

He then approached the horse, and the man stepped away. Speaking a few words gently, he patted the animal's neck and rubbed his hand over his head. Telling the man to give him a small riding whip, long and straight, with a keen lash, he placed himself with his right shoulder close to the horse's head, holding the bridle rein near the bit with his right hand and in his left hand the whip extended back horizontally so that the lash was opposite to the horse's flank.

"Now," said he, "for our lesson." And he began leading the horse around the school, keeping his shoulder close to the animal's head. Presently he took his hand off the bridle, and the horse at once began to move away from his shoulder, but a sharp turn of the master's wrist brought the lash of the whip against his flank just hard enough to make a little sting, and at the same time the master caught hold of the bridle and gently pulled the refractory head close to his shoulder again.

This was repeated half a dozen times, and then the horse evidently reasoned out the situation somewhat in this way:

"As long as I keep my head close to this man's shoulder it's all right, but the minute I take it away something back there jumps up and sticks me. Therefore I'll not take it away any more."

That must have been the way he reasoned, for within the five minutes' time allotted by the riding master the horse was following him all around the school like a big dog, nor did the master have to touch the bridle once.—Atlanta Constitution.

RISKS FIREMEN TAKE.

The Reason Engineer Brown Stuck to His Dangerous Post.

The risks that firemen in big cities take are an everlasting wonder, and the story of Bill Brown, as told by Cleveland Moffett in "Careers of Daring and Danger," shows that the engineer's bravery is sometimes put to tests as severe as those which the hose man or the ladder man even has to endure.

What happened was this: Engine 29, pumping her prettiest, stood at the corner so near the drughouse that the driver thought it wasn't safe for the horses and led them away. That left Brown alone, against the cheek of the fire, watching his boiler and keeping his steam gauge at seventy-five.

As the fire gained chunks of redhot sandstone began to smash down on the engine. Brown ran his pressure up to eighty and watched the door anxiously where the four firemen from his squad had gone into the furnace.

Then an explosion of chemicals in the building sent a flame wide as a house curling across the street, enwrapping engine and man and setting fire to the elevated railway station overhead. Bill Brown stood by his engine with a sheet of fire above him. He heard footsteps on the pavement and voices that grew fainter crying, "Run for your lives!" He was alone, and the skin on his hands, face and neck was blistered.

Brown knew why every one was running. There would be another explosion. It was tolerably certain that he must die if he stayed. But his four chums were in the fire and needed the water. If he quit his engine, the water would fail.

He stoked in coal and ran the gauge up another notch, easing the running parts with the oiler. He was offering his life for his friends.

In a few minutes the four firemen came out of the building. Then Bill Brown ran for his life with his comrades. A second or two later engine 29 was crushed by the falling walls.

A Home Beyond the Grave.

Dan, a colored man, was employed as porter in a mercantile establishment in a town in Florida, and his duties required him to have the store swept by 7 o'clock in the morning. He had been late for many mornings, and on the sixteenth consecutive time his employer remonstrated with him thus:

"Dan, why can't you get here on time?"

"Well, Mr. L.," said Dan, "yer see, I live the other side of Mount Hermon cemetery and can't always get yere on time."

"Why in the world do you live so far from your work?" said his employer.

Without a moment's hesitation Dan responded:

"Yer see, it's dis yere way, Mr. L.—I'll be hones' wid yer—I wants a home beyond the grave."

BRUSH IS THE BOSS.

Cincinnati Magnate Chairman of Executive Committee That Will Rule League.

SEASON WILL OPEN APRIL 17.

Old Organization Decides to Make Strenuous War on the American. Spalding Ball Adopted—Umpires Appointed.

New York, April 4.—The National League baseball magnates were in session long after midnight. N. E Young gave out the information that it was decided to run the league this year without a president. The affairs, instead, will be managed by an executive committee composed of James Hart, of Chicago, A. H. Soden, of Boston, and John T. Brush, of Cincinnati. Mr. Brush will be chairman He said last night the season would start April 17. Pittsburg will open at St. Louis and Chicago at Cincinnati.

The magnates last evening received a telegram from W. C. Temple, of Pittsburg, declining the position as president of the league, offered him Wednesday. Mr. Temple declined on account of pressure of private affairs. He is at present in Florida.

A playing schedule was adopted, but was not made public in full. It will probably be given out today.. N. F. Young handed in his resignation as president of the league and was then elected secretary and treasurer. The Spalding ball was adopted for league play during the coming season. It was decided that the National League magnates will make strenuous war against the American men. They will make a fight to get all players back that have "jumped" to the American League by paying big money for them.

Mr. Young announced the following appointments of umpires for the coming season: Robert Emslie, "Hank" O'Day, Tom Brown and Joseph Cantillon. An appointment was offered to Thomas Lynch, but he refused it.

CHRISTMAS TOUCHED HANSEN.

Attorney Loaned Negotiator $800, Which Has Not Been Repaid.

Washington, April 4.—Before the house committee investigating the Danish West Indies scandal, yesterday, appeared Carl Fischer-Hansen, who was to be the attorney for Captain Christmas in the alleged negotiations between Denmark and the United States. He was willing to act as attorney for the Danish government, he said, but believed that Christmas had lied to him. He said no member of congress had ever been improperly approached in the matter. The inquiry took on a ludicrous aspect when Hansen declared he had never received anything from Christmas, but had loaned the latter $800 when he was hard up, and the sum had never been repaid. Neils Gron made a brief supplementary statement, saying his sole mission was to place the facts before congress and the public, not to make bribery charges; he was desirous of saving the honor of two countries. "A glorious mission," remarked Chairman Dalzell. The committee then adjourned until Monday.

Many Dupes Responded.

Washington, April 4.—The civil service commission is engaged in running down a man who signed himself Albert O. Steffens, "Secretary of the board of civil service commission, New York branch," and advertised in a number of papers in this country and Germany for persons to fill positions with the "land surveyors of Geographical company at Washington," guaranteeing a salary of $2.50 a day, free transportation to and from their homes and free rations. The responses ran into the thousands. A woman is said to be implicated with him.

Got Charter Through Error.

Harrisburg, April 4.—Judge Weiss rendered a decision ousting the Northern Cambria Street Railway company, which was granted a charter March 1, 1901. In the quo warranto proceedings it was charged that this company had been granted a charter after another company had previously applied and complied with all the requirements of the law. It was also stated that the two applications by companies of the same name led to the error which resulted in the second one receiving the charter.

WHERE IS THE BURGLAR?

TRAINING A RIDING HORSE.

The Master Made Good His Assertion as to What He Could Do.

"Yes," said the riding master, "I have to be a horse trainer as well as a riding master. In fact, I couldn't very well be the second without being the first. I always have horses in my school stables here that are sent to me to train for my pupils. One came this morning, and if you have the time to spare I will show you how I give the first lesson in obedience."

The master then ordered one of his men to bring the horse out into the "school," a great oblong space, covered with sawdust and inclosed and roofed. The horse was a fine, spirited animal, with an intelligent and kindly eye, and the master said at once that he would be a tractable and teachable subject, explaining that he had not yet had a chance to "make his acquaintance."

"Now," said he, "you must remember that this horse has never seen me before and that I am, therefore, a perfect stranger to him, and yet I think I can establish between him and myself so good a feeling that in five minutes' time he will follow me all about the school at a word of command—perhaps without a command. Let us see."

He then approached the horse, and the man stepped away. Speaking a few words gently, he patted the animal's neck and rubbed his hand over his head. Telling the man to give him a small riding whip, long and straight, with a keen lash, he placed himself with his right shoulder close to the horse's head, holding the bridle rein near the bit with his right hand and in his left hand the whip extended back horizontally so that the lash was opposite to the horse's flank.

"Now," said he, "for our lesson." And he began leading the horse around the school, keeping his shoulder close to the animal's head. Presently he took his hand off the bridle, and the horse at once began to move away from his shoulder, but a sharp turn of the master's wrist brought the lash of the whip against his flank just hard enough to make a little sting, and at the same time the master caught hold of the bridle and gently pulled the refractory head close to his shoulder again.

This was repeated half a dozen times, and then the horse evidently reasoned out the situation somewhat in this way:

"As long as I keep my head close to this man's shoulder it's all right, but the minute I take it away something back there jumps up and sticks me. Therefore I'll not take it away any more."

That must have been the way he reasoned, for within the five minutes' time allotted by the riding master the horse was following him all around the school like a big dog, nor did the master have to touch the bridle once.—Atlanta Constitution.

RISKS FIREMEN TAKE.

The Reason Engineer Brown Stuck to His Dangerous Post.

The risks that firemen in big cities take are an everlasting wonder, and the story of Bill Brown, as told by Cleveland Moffett in "Careers of Daring and Danger," shows that the engineer's bravery is sometimes put to tests as severe as those which the hose man or the ladder man even has to endure.

What happened was this: Engine 29, pumping her prettiest, stood at the corner so near the drughouse that the driver thought it wasn't safe for the horses and led them away. That left Brown alone, against the cheek of the fire, watching his boiler and keeping his steam gauge at seventy-five.

As the fire gained chunks of redhot sandstone began to smash down on the engine. Brown ran his pressure up to eighty and watched the door anxiously where the four firemen from his squad had gone into the furnace.

Then an explosion of chemicals in the building sent a flame wide as a house curling across the street, enwrapping engine and man and setting fire to the elevated railway station overhead. Bill Brown stood by his engine with a sheet of fire above him. He heard footsteps on the pavement and voices that grew fainter crying, "Run for your lives!" He was alone, and the skin on his hands, face and neck was blistered.

Brown knew why every one was running. There would be another explosion. It was tolerably certain that he must die if he stayed. But his four chums were in the fire and needed the water. If he quit his engine, the water would fail.

He stoked in coal and ran the gauge up another notch, easing the running parts with the oiler. He was offering his life for his friends.

In a few minutes the four firemen came out of the building. Then Bill Brown ran for his life with his comrades. A second or two later engine 29 was crushed by the falling walls.

A Home Beyond the Grave.

Dan, a colored man, was employed as porter in a mercantile establishment in a town in Florida, and his duties required him to have the store swept by 7 o'clock in the morning. He had been late for many mornings, and on the sixteenth consecutive time his employer remonstrated with him thus:

"Dan, why can't you get here on time?"

"Well, Mr. L.," said Dan, "yer see, I live the other side of Mount Hermon cemetery and can't always get yere on time."

"Why in the world do you live so far from your work?" said his employer.

Without a moment's hesitation Dan responded:

"Yer see, it's dis yere way, Mr. L.—I'll be hones' wid yer—I wants a home beyond the grave."

Much Ado About an "S."

The printing of the Bible is the most strictly guarded work in existence, a fact which appears strange until we reflect on the mischief an inaccurate Bible might bring about. The king's printers and the two universities of Oxford and Cambridge give to the world all the Bibles printed in the United Kingdom except some printed by special license. A few years ago the question arose whether the word "spirit" in Matthew iv, 1, and Mark i, 12, should have a capital "S," it having been previously printed with a small one, and, although the word was obviously wrongly printed, it was not until after the ruling powers at the universities and the king's printers had met in solemn council that leave was given to use the capital letter.

Nothing sanctioned by authority in 1611 may be changed without creating something akin to revolution in the places where Bibles are printed.—Liverpool Post.

THEFT OF A HORSE WAS SUSPECTED

A Warrant Was Issued For the Supposed Thief by Joe Vitale.

MISSING ANNIMAL FOUND

Before the Officers Could Catch the Man—The Animal Had Simply Walked Away, the Stable Door Being Unlocked.

Joe Vitale, the fruit dealer, found his horse missing when he went to feed it this morning.

Jumping to the conclusion that a thief had paid him a visit, Vitale began an investigation. Mary Pfeister, a young girl who lives close to the stable, declared that she saw a man enter the barn between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning and take the horse away. She gave a description of him which tallied so closely to that of one John Allison, of Chester, that Vitale went to the mayor's office and swore out a warrant for him.

Chief Thompson went in search of Allison, learning from Allison's relative that the suspected man had been looking for a horse. While this search for Allison was going on a telephone message was received by the mayor about 11 o'clock stating that the missing horse had been found near Jethro by Ed Rosensteel, where it was wanwering around. Vitale was soon in possession of the animal. The charge against Allison was withdrawn. The stable had not been broken into, the horse having itself pushed the door open. The girl was probably mistaken. Allison had looked at the horse a day before, talking of buying it.

Getting Into Moral Debt.

Philip D. Armour, millionaire and philanthropist, continually warned young men against getting into debt. He loved free men and despised slaves. When asked if he admired a certain brilliant orator, he said: "He may have a superb voice and fine presence, but can't you hear the rattle of his chain? That man is not free. He is under moral obligations that demoralize him. He is not speaking the deepest thing in his soul, and I haven't time to hear any slave talk. I want a man to be just as free as I am."

On another occasion he said: "Don't get into debt—I mean moral debt. It is bad enough to get into debt financially. There goes a young man who is mortgaged. That young man is legging it along with a debt, and it will take twice as much power to get him along as the man without a debt. There are other debts and obligations that are embarrassing in their entanglements. Don't get into debt morally, my boy; don't get into debt so that you may not exercise your freedom to its limits."

Where Four States Meet.

It is queer to think of the possibility of being in four states at once, yet there is one spot in the United States—the only place in the world—where it is possible. Look on your map of this country, says the St. Louis Republic, and you will find an intersection between two straight lines, where Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona meet.

The place is not often visited, as it is not easily reached. The stone erected there by the government surveyors is on top of a spur in the Carriso mountains. The nearest railroad town is Mancos, Colo., nearly 100 miles from the "four corners."

The region about was once densely populated by cliff dwellers, but now there are no human beings within miles.

Our Young Men's Department of Fine Swell Suits is now almost complete. We advise all swell dressers to call and see them.

The Emerald's Power.

Emeralds from India, Persia and Peru are the most valuable. According to their tints and their luster, they are classed as prosines, neronianes and domitianes. According to Suetonius, Nero used to look at the fighting gladiators in his emerald. The stone is the emblem of charity, hope, joy and abundance. It had the reputation of curing epilepsy by application and of being an all round pain killer.

While this search for Allison was going on a telephone message was received by the mayor about 11 o'clock stating that the missing horse had been found near Jethro by Ed Rosensteel, where it was wanwering around. Vitale was soon in possession of the animal. The charge against Allison was withdrawn. The stable had not been broken into, the horse having itself pushed the door open. The girl was probably mistaken. Allison had looked at the horse a day before, talking of buying it.

Getting Into Moral Debt.

Philip D. Armour, millionaire and philanthropist, continually warned young men against getting into debt. He loved free men and despised slaves. When asked if he admired a certain brilliant orator, he said: "He may have a superb voice and fine presence, but can't you hear the rattle of his chain? That man is not free. He is under moral obligations that demoralize him. He is not speaking the deepest thing in his soul, and I haven't time to hear any slave talk. I want a man to be just as free as I am."

On another occasion he said: "Don't get into debt—I mean moral debt. It is bad enough to get into debt financially. There goes a young man who is mortgaged. That young man is legging it along with a debt, and it will take twice as much power to get him along as the man without a debt. There are other debts and obligations that are embarrassing in their entanglements. Don't get into debt morally, my boy; don't get into debt so that you may not exercise your freedom to its limits."

Where Four States Meet.

It is queer to think of the possibility of being in four states at once, yet there is one spot in the United States—the only place in the world—where it is possible. Look on your map of this country, says the St. Louis Republic, and you will find an intersection between two straight lines, where Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona meet.

The place is not often visited, as it is not easily reached. The stone erected there by the government surveyors is on top of a spur in the Carriso mountains. The nearest railroad town is Mancos, Colo., nearly 100 miles from the "four corners."

The region about was once densely populated by cliff dwellers, but now there are no human beings within miles.

The Emerald's Power.

Emeralds from India, Persia and Peru are the most valuable. According to their tints and their luster, they are classed as prosines, neronianes and domitianes. According to Suetonius, Nero used to look at the fighting gladiators in his emerald. The stone is the emblem of charity, hope, joy and abundance. It had the reputation of curing epilepsy by application and of being an all round pain killer.

ATLANTIC CITY'S FIRE

Twelve Hotels, Part of the Boardwalk and Young's Pier Destroyed.

LOSS WILL BE ABOUT $750,000

News of the Conflagration Causes New Jersey's Governor to Immediately Sign New Charter for the Popular Seaside Resort.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 4.—Twelve hotels and more than a score of small buildings adjoining the boardwalk, which is built along the ocean edge, were destroyed yesterday by a fire which swept the beach front for two long blocks from Illinois avenue to New York avenue. The local board of insurance underwriters, after a meeting last night, said that the total loss would not exceed $750,000, and the loss to the insurance companies would be about $175,000.

The hotels destroyed are: The Luray and annex, the latter formerly known as the Norwood, owned by J. S. White and son; the New Holland, Mrs. M. J. Lee; Stratford, Arnold W. Waldner; Berkley, Bew Bros.; Bryn Mawr, J. & F. Keffer; Stickney, Mrs. L. V. Stickney; Evard, James T. Gorman; Rio Grande, J. P. Kilpatrick; Mervine, K. Eolls; Academy hotel and Academy of Music, Charles Fralinger; Windsor, G. Jason Waters (partly destroyed); Tarlton, G. Jason Waters. Other victims are: Charles Keeler, drug store; Victor Freisinger, art store; James A. Brady, bath house; David John, druggist; Nabass & Kazarr, oriental goods; Haines, florist; Shimmamura & Co., Japanese novelties; Ching Hop Hing, Chinese novelties; John H. Flett, art store; Partridge & Richardson, millinery and dry goods; Women's Exchange; E. P. Quinn, hair dresser; M. Moyer & Bro., jewelry; Richard Binder, barber.

The fire was discovered shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and for nearly five hours the flames threatened the city with destruction. The local fire department worked well and willingly, but was unable to cope with the flames, and it was found necessary to send to Philadelphia and Camden for aid. Just as the special train bearing the Philadelphia firemen arrived a burning brand set fire to the center of Young's pier, near Tennessee avenue. For a few minutes the pier burned fiercely, but the firemen succeeded in confining the flames to Marine hall. This structure was entirely destroyed, bisecting the pier.

Nothing is left of the boardwalk from Illinois avenue to a point within a few feet of Young's pier but the iron supports. This is the portion of the walk that is mostly used by promenaders. When the fire broke out Mayor Stoy with a delegation was in Trenton urging Governor Murphy to sign for Atlantic City a new charter which, among other things, provides for stricter building laws. When news of the fire reached Trenton the governor immediately signed the charter.

The city council last night arranged for the rebuilding of the burned portion of the boardwalk. Most of the fire victims expressed a desire to rebuild as quickly as possible.

NOT ENOUGH RELIEF GIVEN.

Congressman McClellan Files the Minority Report on the Cuban Reciprocity Measure.

Washington, April 4.—The first of the minority reports on the Cuban reciprocity bill was filed yesterday by Representative McClellan, of New York, of the ways and means committee, who argues that the bill gives Cuba much less in the way of relief than she is justly entitled to. He cites the Teller resolution and the Platt amendment as establishing our assurances to Cuba and the world. Mr. McClellan sums up his position as follows:

"First, the bill does not afford sufficient relief to Cuba, but it minimizes the loss of the present crop of sugar; second, it is possible, but not certain, that a 20 per cent reduction of the Cuban tariff will result in giving us a monopoly of the Cuban market; third, the bill is an enunciation of the Democratic doctrine of reciprocity; it is a breach in the wall of protection, and lowers in part the preposterous Dingley rates.

"If I am afforded the opportunity when the bill comes before the committee of the whole, I shall try to amend it by increasing the rate of reduction so as to make certain not only the control of the Cuban market by us, but also the prosperity of Cuba. I shall also try to amend by striking out the time limit. Failing to amend, for the reasons here stated, I shall vote for the bill."

New York, April 4.—T. Estrada Palma, president-elect of the Cuban republic, addressed the New York chamber of commerce yesterday. Mr. Palma said he hoped for a reciprocal commercial treaty to the end that Cuba should become the largest market in America for the products of the United States, and that this country raise the bar now placed against the Cuban products, especially sugar and tobacco, which are the principal staples of the island. After Senor Palma's speech a vote of thanks was extended to him, and a resolution was offered by Francis B. Thurber in favor of a 50 per cent reduction in the present Cuban tariff. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign trade, with the proviso that such committee report at a special meeting one week from yesterday.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, was elected a member of the chamber at yesterday's meeting.

SENATE PASSES OLEO BILL.

Provisions of the Measure Which Differs From That Passed by the House.

Washington, April 4.—At the conclusion of a lively debate yesterday the senate passed the oleomargarine bill by a vote of 39 to 31.

The discussion was largely in the nature of a reinforcement of arguments previously advanced. Mr. Spooner, of Wisconsin, made the principal speech, maintaining that congress had ample authority to enact the proposed legislation because it was in the interest of the people.

In an earnest protest against the measure Mr. Vest, of Missouri, held that congress was invading the powers of the states. Mr. Scott, of West Virginia, moved to recommit the measure to the committee, holding that it was unsatisfactory to many senators and ought to be perfected. The motion was defeated, 35 to 37.

During the afternoon a perfect flood of telegrams poured into the senate from all parts of the country, urging senators either to support or to oppose the measure.

The measure as passed by the senate differs in some respects from that passed by the house of representatives. It provides that oleo and kindred products shall be subject to all the laws and regulations of any state or territory or the District of Columbia into which they are transported, whether in original packages or otherwise; that any person who sells oleomargarine and furnishes it for the use of others, except to his own family, who shall mix with it any artificial coloration that causes it to look like butter, shall be held to be a manufacturer and shall be subject to the tax provided by existing law; that upon oleomargarine colored so as to resemble butter a tax of 10 cents a pound shall be levied, but upon oleomargarine not colored the tax shall be one-fourth of 1 cent per pound; that upon adulterated butter a tax of 10 cents a pound shall be levied; and upon all process or renovated butter the tax shall be one-fourth of 1 cent per pound. The manufacturers of process or renovated or adulterated butter shall pay an annual tax of $600, the wholesale dealers shall pay a tax of $480 and the retail dealers a tax of $48 per annum.

The measure provides regulations for the collection of the tax and prescribes minutely how the various products are to be prepared for market.

FILIBUSTERS WERE SWAMPED.

House Passes Revenue Cutter Service Bill by 135 to 49.

Washington, April 4.—The senate bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service passed the house yesterday by a vote of 135 to 49. The opponents of the measure fought it to the last ditch. At the very end they attempted a filibuster, but were swept aside by the overwhelming majority in favor of the measure.

The bill gives the commissioned officers of the revenue service relative rank as follows:

Captains, with majors in the army and lieutenant commanders in the navy; first lieutenants, with captains in the army and lieutenants in the navy; second lieutenants, with first lieutenants in the army and lieutenants (junior grade) in the navy, and third lieutenants, with second lieutenants in the army and ensigns in the navy. It gives the officers of the service longevity pay equivalent to the corresponding rank in the army, and provides for their retirement with three-fourths pay for disability or upon reaching the age limit of 64 years.

Twice Wrecked In a Week.

Cumberland, Md., April 4.—Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 9, en route for Pittsburg, was wrecked yesterday for the second time this week, colliding with a helper at Philson. Both engines of the passenger train, running double header, were wrecked, but no one was injured. The same train was wrecked Sunday morning in the same locality, when four persons were injured.

Pennsylvania Postmasters Confirmed.

Washington, April 4.—The following Pennsylvania postmasters were confirmed by the senate: D. W. Bedea, Shenandoah; E. R. Linder, Orwigsburg; L. Biltz, Girardsville; Robert B. Clayton, Ashland; J. N. Watson, Hattboro.

He cites the Teller resolution and the Platt amendment as establishing our assurances to Cuba and the world. Mr. McClellan sums up his position as follows:

"First, the bill does not afford sufficient relief to Cuba, but it minimizes the loss of the present crop of sugar; second, it is possible, but not certain, that a 20 per cent reduction of the Cuban tariff will result in giving us a monopoly of the Cuban market; third, the bill is an enunciation of the Democratic doctrine of reciprocity; it is a breach in the wall of protection, and lowers in part the preposterous Dingley rates.

"If I am afforded the opportunity when the bill comes before the committee of the whole, I shall try to amend it by increasing the rate of reduction so as to make certain not only the control of the Cuban market by us, but also the prosperity of Cuba. I shall also try to amend by striking out the time limit. Failing to amend, for the reasons here stated, I shall vote for the bill."

New York, April 4.—T. Estrada Palma, president-elect of the Cuban republic, addressed the New York chamber of commerce yesterday. Mr. Palma said he hoped for a reciprocal commercial treaty to the end that Cuba should become the largest market in America for the products of the United States, and that this country raise the bar now placed against the Cuban products, especially sugar and tobacco, which are the principal staples of the island. After Senor Palma's speech a vote of thanks was extended to him, and a resolution was offered by Francis B. Thurber in favor of a 50 per cent reduction in the present Cuban tariff. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign trade, with the proviso that such committee report at a special meeting one week from yesterday.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, was elected a member of the chamber at yesterday's meeting.

SENATE PASSES OLEO BILL.

Provisions of the Measure Which Differs From That Passed by the House.

Washington, April 4.—At the conclusion of a lively debate yesterday the senate passed the oleomargarine bill by a vote of 39 to 31.

The discussion was largely in the nature of a reinforcement of arguments previously advanced. Mr. Spooner, of Wisconsin, made the principal speech, maintaining that congress had ample authority to enact the proposed legislation because it was in the interest of the people.

In an earnest protest against the measure Mr. Vest, of Missouri, held that congress was invading the powers of the states. Mr. Scott, of West Virginia, moved to recommit the measure to the committee, holding that it was unsatisfactory to many senators and ought to be perfected. The motion was defeated, 35 to 37.

During the afternoon a perfect flood of telegrams poured into the senate from all parts of the country, urging senators either to support or to oppose the measure.

The measure as passed by the senate differs in some respects from that passed by the house of representatives. It provides that oleo and kindred products shall be subject to all the laws and regulations of any state or territory or the District of Columbia into which they are transported, whether in original packages or otherwise; that any person who sells oleomargarine and furnishes it for the use of others, except to his own family, who shall mix with it any artificial coloration that causes it to look like butter, shall be held to be a manufacturer and shall be subject to the tax provided by existing law; that upon oleomargarine colored so as to resemble butter a tax of 10 cents a pound shall be levied, but upon oleomargarine not colored the tax shall be one-fourth of 1 cent per pound; that upon adulterated butter a tax of 10 cents a pound shall be levied; and upon all process or renovated butter the tax shall be one-fourth of 1 cent per pound. The manufacturers of process or renovated or adulterated butter shall pay an annual tax of $600, the wholesale dealers shall pay a tax of $480 and the retail dealers a tax of $48 per annum.

The measure provides regulations for the collection of the tax and prescribes minutely how the various products are to be prepared for market.

FILIBUSTERS WERE SWAMPED.

House Passes Revenue Cutter Service Bill by 135 to 49.

Washington, April 4.—The senate bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service passed the house yesterday by a vote of 135 to 49. The opponents of the measure fought it to the last ditch. At the very end they attempted a filibuster, but were swept aside by the overwhelming majority in favor of the measure.

The bill gives the commissioned officers of the revenue service relative rank as follows:

Captains, with majors in the army and lieutenant commanders in the navy; first lieutenants, with captains in the army and lieutenants in the navy; second lieutenants, with first lieutenants in the army and lieutenants (junior grade) in the navy, and third lieutenants, with second lieutenants in the army and ensigns in the navy. It gives the officers of the service longevity pay equivalent to the corresponding rank in the army, and provides for their retirement with three-fourths pay for disability or upon reaching the age limit of 64 years.

Twice Wrecked In a Week.

Cumberland, Md., April 4.—Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 9, en route for Pittsburg, was wrecked yesterday for the second time this week, colliding with a helper at Philson. Both engines of the passenger train, running double header, were wrecked, but no one was injured. The same train was wrecked Sunday morning in the same locality, when four persons were injured.

Pennsylvania Postmasters Confirmed.

Washington, April 4.—The following Pennsylvania postmasters were confirmed by the senate: D. W. Bedea, Shenandoah; E. R. Linder, Orwigsburg; L. Biltz, Girardsville; Robert B. Clayton, Ashland; J. N. Watson, Hattboro.

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,
Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

IV.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

On commencement day, 1809, his father, Rev. Abiel Holmes, wrote in his almanac opposite Aug. 29, "Son 6," and, sprinkling sand upon the ink, probably started for the exercises, which were in those days of greater interest to city and country than an ordination or a circus of the period. He was a man of renown, son-in-law and biographer of President Stiles of Yale and author of the "Annals of America," besides being pastor of the first parish in Cambridge, notwithstanding his New Haven education. Son Oliver Wendell would have dwelt longer on his descent from the fine old families represented by those two names than can be done here, for it was one of the cardinal points of his belief that a man should be very careful in selecting his ancestors. His own were the best that New England could furnish.

It was inevitable that the boy of sixteen should enter Harvard and from a rhyming tendency already shown that he should deliver poems before the Hasty Pudding club at junior exhibition and at the commencement of 1829. His first printed collection of verse, written while a law student, is called "Runaway Ballads," possibly from one on a proposed elopement which contains this:

> Get up! Get up! Miss Polly Jones, the tandem's at the door.
> Get up and shake your lovely bones; it's twelve o'clock and more.
> The chaises they have rattled by, and nothing stirs around,
> And all the world but you and me are snoring safe and sound.

But at this date he could also write something as grand as "Old Ironsides" and thus foreshow the twofold direction in which his poetic gift would win its triumphs. As a testimony to the practical value of his early verse it should be added that this burst of reverent patriotism inspired the universal protest which saved the old Constitution from being broken up.

Holmes.

Holmes found the study of medicine, for which he had abandoned that of the law, still less congenial to the poetic muse notwithstanding two years of study and travel in Europe. Nothing that he saw there made him forget his beloved Boston, to which he returned in 1835 to take his degree as a poet by reading at Harvard the next year a long poem entitled "Poetry, a Metrical Essay," the first of over fifty which he delivered on similar occasions during his life. He was preeminently the poet of occasion—celebrations, anniversaries and public festivals. He was always ready and good natured, being at length beyond the unpoetical suggestions of the dissecting room or at least accustomed to them. It was in the days of the "Autocrat" that he remarks: "My friend the poet tells me he has to leave town whenever the anniversaries come round. What's the difficulty? Why, they all want him to get up and make speeches or songs or toasts, which is just the very thing he doesn't want to do. But they tease him and coax him and by pressure on the weak spot of his head stupefy him to the point of acquiescence."

Holmes always had the rare talent of writing in his library just what would fit the after dinner mood of the company. There was champagne in his brain.

The extent of his possible effervescence is indicated by examples with which his readers are familiar. Each one will recall his favorite and every one "The One Hoss Shay" and "How the Old Horse Won the Bet," both of which betray cavalier blood from some remote knight or possibly from a nearer judge of horseflesh. The "Class Poems" for thirty-eight years, from "Bill and Joe" in 1851 to "After the Curfew" in 1889, are bright with reminiscence and hopes.

Beyond all the wit and humor of his verse was that of pathos, which is its nearest neighbor in exalted characters. It is not always possible for dull spirits to distinguish between buoyancy and levity any more than between irony and sarcasm, humor and wit. Even a book of synonyms does not help their perceptive faculties. But the dullest know the difference between laughter and tears, and this writer knew how to move his hearers and readers to the one or the other at will—this, too, without pretense of art or purpose. He simply spoke out the suggestions of an April heart, with its sunshine and showers, restraining neither its gladness nor its gloom. The total effect, however, is as the joy of springtime and not the melancholy of autumn. Let those who are growing old read "In the Twilight:"

> Not bedtime yet! The full blown flower
> Of all the year—this evening hour—
> With friendship's flame is bright;
> Life still is sweet, the heavens are fair,
> Though fields are brown and woods are bare,
> And many a joy is left to share
> Before we say good night.
> And when, our cheerful evening past,
> The nurse, long waiting, comes at last,
> Ere on her lap we lie
> In wearied nature's sweet repose,
> At peace with all her waking foes,
> Our lips shall murmur ere they close
> Good night and not goodby.

Holmes' verse is by no means confined to poems of sentiment. The title to those written between 1849 and 1865, "Songs In Many Keys," might be prefixed to the entire collection in two goodly volumes. They range from the plowman to the warrior, from maid Agnes to St Anthony, from Avis to the Old Man of the Sea, from Parson Turrell to Shakespeare. There are songs of life and labor, of present and departed days, of festival and funeral, of greeting and farewell, of times and seasons, of peace and war. Those labeled "In War Time" are characteristic of this poet, as Whittier's and Longfellow's and Lowell's were of the way each one interpreted its message to the nation. The manner in which different people and parties received the call to arms is clearly stated in his "Thus Saith the Lord," in "Never or Now," an equally clear summons to fill the ranks; in "Our Country," the better sentiment of which finally prevailed from the lakes to the gulf.

In "The Temple," "The Last Leaf" and "The Chambered Nautilus" the poet reaches the loftiest height which he attained.

There is much said about the dead line of fifty, after crossing which a man's comfort in his work must be chiefly in looking backward. Holmes was within one step of this supposed arctic circle when he began the "Autocrat" papers once more after an interruption of twenty-five years to "see if the ripe fruit were better or worse than the early windfalls." He found it so much better that he would never allow those two early papers in the New England Magazine to be reprinted. How good the rest of the reading world found the entire "Breakfast Table Series" is a matter of literary history connected with the immediate success of The Atlantic Monthly in the hard times of 1857 and later. Whoever lived in those years felt that in spite of financial straits it was time for New England to laugh. It had not indulged in a general smile for 240 years.

When the series was finished, the demand for more continued. Accordingly a second and after awhile a third followed under the titles of "The Professor at the Breakfast Table" and "The Poet at the Breakfast Table." Of these the author himself said they were like the successive squeezing of the vintage, but some, like Lowell, prefer the second run to the first. The third had the advantage of some years' interval between it and the preceding one.

So much cannot be said for his novels, which were the experiments of a professional in the line of his profession to illustrate theories of transmission and heredity. "Elsie Venner" has the kind of charm that is supposed to belong to the eye of a serpent. "The Guardian Angel" interests by its portrayal of provincial traits, and the "Mortal Antipathy" does not add to his renown. Better are his biographies of Motley and Emerson, works of sympathetic and keen appreciation. But the hurried reader will turn first to the earlier writings of the professor and poet in his chair at the breakfast table, where he is at his best and supreme.

The entire series may be regarded as similar brands from the same choice vine which had its roots close by the fountains of wisdom and its branches spread to the sunlight of heaven. The warmth of a genial spirit is in them, sparkling with vivacious wit and cheerful humor, stimulating to other minds and steadying them withal by its sane intelligence. It is the rarefied common sense of the refined American, alert and discreet, deft and graceful, thoughtful and conservative. His eye was keen for the vulnerable spot and the weak one. Physician for the spirit as well as for the body, for the soul cramps which New England had inherited with its rheumatism, he knew that laughter at its own infirmities would give it a wholesome shaking up, even if accompanied with shrieks of protestation. His hatred of Calvinism and homeopathy sometimes made "Physician, heal thyself," an appropriate rejoinder, but he took much cant and nonsense out of the age and taught the difference between good taste and poor in life and letters, between pretense and reality, honesty and dishonesty, affectation and sincerity, a little knowledge and profound wisdom. This he accomplished in the genuine kindliness of a gracious disposition, which was humorous without bitterness and witty without malice; whose pathos never descended into bathos, having always in it the elements of cheerfulness and of hope. Accordingly his place is among the bright and happy spirits in literature, to whom we turn when we wish to listen to revelations of personality like those of Montaigne and Pepys and Kit North or to be reminded of talk and tables at the Mermaid tavern or Will's coffee house, at Ambrose's and at Essex Head.

The Actor Affects the Part; the Part Does Not Affect the Actor

By JOHN DREW, Actor

THE parts played have no effect upon the actor's personality, for the actor affects the part; the part does not affect the actor. Edwin Booth was one of the kindest hearted men alive, yet one of his greatest parts was Iago. Joseph Jefferson has played Rip Van Winkle for over a third of a century, but in real life he has none of the qualities of the half drunken scamp that he portrays so exquisitely. THE MERE FACT OF PLAYING THE PART OF FAGIN WILL NOT STIMULATE A MAN TO BECOME A PICKPOCKET. One of Sir Henry Irving's best impersonations is that of Alfred Jingle. No one would ever dare to say that because he enacted the part so cleverly upon the stage he would lower himself to the thoughts and feelings of the character when off the boards.

There are a number of stories told of the old actors that seem to contradict this theory. Among them is the well known one of the elder Booth chasing a fellow actor down a long flight of steps and out into the street with a drawn sword with murderous intent while simulating the character of Richard III. upon the stage, but this was the vagary of a drunken man. They tell us that Macready used to shake a ladder to work himself up to a proper frenzy for a certain scene, but I am quite sure that none of the old worthies was so saturated with his part that he forgot himself in the intensity of his simulating passion, for this would not be art, but realism in its worst form.

Of course we must make the effect upon our audiences convincing, but TO MY MIND THE MORE PERFECT THE ART THE MORE CONVINCING THE ACTOR BECOMES. And so it is with the portrayal of the gentleman upon the stage. It is not the question of the tailor or the clothes that a man wears, but his own idea of the character that he intends to portray.

I have of late been playing a part in which I am decorated with a Victoria cross. If this mimic life should become real to me, I should of course imagine that I had a real cross upon the lapel of my coat and that I was entitled to the honor, an absurdity.

His Debut as an Actor.

Frank J. McIntyre was a newspaper man in Ann Arbor, Mich., before he became an actor. He began as a "cub" reporter while still a student in Michigan university and finally advanced until the editor left him in charge of the paper on one occasion when he took a trip to Detroit.

Two important local items were to be printed, one relating the sad demise of a young man of prominent family, the other telling how a traveling salesman had jumped his board bill at a local hotel. "Mac" had to write the headlines for these stories, and, after scratching his head, he evolved "Passed Away Quietly" for the obituary story and "Jumped His Board Bill" for the hotel beat. "Mac" was proud of his achievement and, lighting a big cigar, leaned back in his chair and began to realize how it feels to be an editor.

The man who "made up" the paper scanned the headings, transposed them, and the friends and relatives of the deceased read that he had "Jumped His Board Bill," and the bereaved landlord learned that his late guest had "Passed Away Quietly."—New York World.

Autumn Haze.

"Autumn haze," says a meteorological expert, "is dust composed of the finest particles of soil, dead leaves, smoke or ashes from wood fires, salt from ocean spray, the shells or scales from microscopic siliceous diatoms, germs of fungi, spores of ferns, pollen of flowers, etc. In the still air of damp nights these dust particles settle slowly down, and the morning air is comparatively clear. During the daylight the sun warms the soil, which heats the adjacent air, and the rising air currents carry up the dust as high as they go. Under certain conditions this layer of dust reaches higher and higher each day. During long, dry summers in India it reaches to a height of 7,000 feet, with a well defined upper surface that is higher in the daytime than at night. The reason why we have more of hazy weather in autumn is because there is then less horizontal wind and more rising air."

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. It is the rarefied common sense of the refined American, alert and discreet, deft and graceful, thoughtful and conservative. His eye was keen for the vulnerable spot and the weak one. Physician for the spirit as well as for the body, for the soul cramps which New England had inherited with its rheumatism, he knew that laughter at its own infirmities would give it a wholesome shaking up, even if accompanied with shrieks of protestation. His hatred of Calvinism and homeopathy sometimes made "Physician, heal thyself," an appropriate rejoinder, but he took much cant and nonsense out of the age and taught the difference between good taste and poor in life and letters, between pretense and reality, honesty and dishonesty, affectation and sincerity, a little knowledge and profound wisdom. This he accomplished in the genuine kindliness of a gracious disposition, which was humorous without bitterness and witty without malice; whose pathos never descended into bathos, having always in it the elements of cheerfulness and of hope. Accordingly his place is among the bright and happy spirits in literature, to whom we turn when we wish to listen to revelations of personality like those of Montaigne and Pepys and Kit North or to be reminded of talk and tables at the Mermaid tavern or Will's coffee house, at Ambrose's and at Essex Head.

The Actor Affects the Part; the Part Does Not Affect the Actor

By JOHN DREW, Actor

THE parts played have no effect upon the actor's personality, for the actor affects the part; the part does not affect the actor. Edwin Booth was one of the kindest hearted men alive, yet one of his greatest parts was Iago. Joseph Jefferson has played Rip Van Winkle for over a third of a century, but in real life he has none of the qualities of the half drunken scamp that he portrays so exquisitely. THE MERE FACT OF PLAYING THE PART OF FAGIN WILL NOT STIMULATE A MAN TO BECOME A PICKPOCKET. One of Sir Henry Irving's best impersonations is that of Alfred Jingle. No one would ever dare to say that because he enacted the part so cleverly upon the stage he would lower himself to the thoughts and feelings of the character when off the boards.

There are a number of stories told of the old actors that seem to contradict this theory. Among them is the well known one of the elder Booth chasing a fellow actor down a long flight of steps and out into the street with a drawn sword with murderous intent while simulating the character of Richard III. upon the stage, but this was the vagary of a drunken man. They tell us that Macready used to shake a ladder to work himself up to a proper frenzy for a certain scene, but I am quite sure that none of the old worthies was so saturated with his part that he forgot himself in the intensity of his simulating passion, for this would not be art, but realism in its worst form.

Of course we must make the effect upon our audiences convincing, but TO MY MIND THE MORE PERFECT THE ART THE MORE CONVINCING THE ACTOR BECOMES. And so it is with the portrayal of the gentleman upon the stage. It is not the question of the tailor or the clothes that a man wears, but his own idea of the character that he intends to portray.

I have of late been playing a part in which I am decorated with a Victoria cross. If this mimic life should become real to me, I should of course imagine that I had a real cross upon the lapel of my coat and that I was entitled to the honor, an absurdity.

His Debut as an Actor.

Frank J. McIntyre was a newspaper man in Ann Arbor, Mich., before he became an actor. He began as a "cub" reporter while still a student in Michigan university and finally advanced until the editor left him in charge of the paper on one occasion when he took a trip to Detroit.

Two important local items were to be printed, one relating the sad demise of a young man of prominent family, the other telling how a traveling salesman had jumped his board bill at a local hotel. "Mac" had to write the headlines for these stories, and, after scratching his head, he evolved "Passed Away Quietly" for the obituary story and "Jumped His Board Bill" for the hotel beat. "Mac" was proud of his achievement and, lighting a big cigar, leaned back in his chair and began to realize how it feels to be an editor.

The man who "made up" the paper scanned the headings, transposed them, and the friends and relatives of the deceased read that he had "Jumped His Board Bill," and the bereaved landlord learned that his late guest had "Passed Away Quietly."—New York World.

Autumn Haze.

"Autumn haze," says a meteorological expert, "is dust composed of the finest particles of soil, dead leaves, smoke or ashes from wood fires, salt from ocean spray, the shells or scales from microscopic siliceous diatoms, germs of fungi, spores of ferns, pollen of flowers, etc. In the still air of damp nights these dust particles settle slowly down, and the morning air is comparatively clear. During the daylight the sun warms the soil, which heats the adjacent air, and the rising air currents carry up the dust as high as they go. Under certain conditions this layer of dust reaches higher and higher each day. During long, dry summers in India it reaches to a height of 7,000 feet, with a well defined upper surface that is higher in the daytime than at night. The reason why we have more of hazy weather in autumn is because there is then less horizontal wind and more rising air."

Heathenizing It.

"My friend," said the missionary who was trying to convert the wealthy mandarin, "do you not know that it is easier for the camel to get through the eye of the needle than"—

"Than it is for me," the mandarin interrupted, "to get through the need of an idol, eh? Very true."—Philadelphia Record.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. UNDER THE STREETS

VAST SYSTEMS OF TUNNELS BEING BUILT IN LARGE CITIES.

New York, London and Chicago In Process of Change—Boston's Fine Subway System—Problems That Face Centers of Population.

One of the most pressing problems of modern life in great cities is the transportation of the immense working population to and fro between its place of daily labor and its homes. So serious is the situation in such great centers of population as New York, London, Chicago and other large cities that the streets are inadequate for the movement of the multitudes and must be made to do double and triple service. So great is the pressure for room that the underground world has been invaded, and vast systems of tunnels have been built or are in course of construction.

In New York they are building a subway, after years of cogitation over the matter, that is to cost many millions of dollars and is to afford increased transit facilities to that city. This work has been acclaimed as one of the engineering marvels of the age, and the newspapers and technical publications of the country have been full of descriptions of it. In the prosecution of the construction operations the streets of New York have been torn up and rendered impassable to the public for months at a time.

In Chicago a work of practically equal magnitude has been going on under ground, but as there have been no torn up streets or any external evidences of the work it has escaped public notice. With the single exception that much of the New York excavation has to be made through solid rock, while that of the Chicago project is through the treacherous blue clay that underlies the city, there is but little difference from an engineering standpoint in the character of the two enterprises, except that New York's subway is being built on the credit of the municipality, while that in Chicago is being constructed by a private corporation.

Today in the business portion of Chicago there are over five miles of these tunnels completed, and the rate of construction is over a mile a month. A thousand men, working in eight hour shifts, are rushing this gigantic work, and by the 1st of September the downtown system of tunnels, which will comprise thirteen miles in all, will have been completed. Yet this will be only a beginning. Before the plans of the corporation building this subterranean network will have reached completion over fifty miles of tunnel will have been built.

These tunnels are intended to carry the wires of the new telephone company. In building the tunnels, however, the company has not constructed them with a view of utilizing them for that purpose alone; hence the size of the underground bore. Under most of the streets the tunnel is 8 feet high by 6 in width. In others, however, the tunnel is 14 feet high by 12 feet in width, or large enough to take the telephone cable in on its reels and enable the workmen to properly distribute it.

Under its franchise the company which is constructing these tunnels has the right not only to string the wires for its telephone service, but to transmit mails and newspapers. This is why the tunnels have been made so large.

Boston has just completed a most elaborate underground system of railroad which connects with nearly all the ferries and railway stations in that city and is at present the best existing subway system in the world.

For many years London has had underground railways, but they were run on such primitive methods as to excite ridicule. Recently Charles T. Yerkes of New York secured control of one of the roads and has been improving and adding to it and ripping open the bowels of London generally. The trains on the new road are operated and lighted by electricity, and the stations are lined with white tile. This road proved an immediate success, and its earnings the past year have been large. Mr. Yerkes is preparing to still further extend the system.

THE NEW WOMAN VERSUS THE OLD TIME MOTHER

By Mrs. SUSAN YOUNG GATES of Utah

IT HAS REMAINED FOR THE GREAT CIVILIZATION OF THE NINETEENTH AND TWENTIETH CENTURIES TO IMPOSE UPON WOMANHOOD THE BURDEN OF REGRET AND OFTEN OF SHAME IF SHE BECOMES THE MOTHER OF A LARGE FAMILY OF CHILDREN.

Large families are sneered at, and young girls are taught before marriage that large families are a burden and care, not a blessing, to their country and to their parents. Society, or, rather, too much of it, also comes in for a share of the blame. What are the women of America thinking and doing about this grave problem? Study the census returns in all their significance. Traverse the New England states and observe the half empty schoolrooms. Go to the great centers of population and enter the common schools, observing the nationalities of the children of the United States, and what is the result? Thousands of Russian children are there and nearly as many Germans, while Italians in ever increasing ratio crowd into our places of public instruction.

Where are the descendants of the pilgrim fathers and the Puritan mothers, whose families were often fifteen in number and seldom less than seven? If their descendants had followed in the footsteps of their forbears, they would today have been the dominant people of America in numbers as well as in intelligence.

Where are the old Knickerbocker families of New York? And where, may we ask, are the pure descendants of the courtly southern families? The mental emancipation of woman, which is already an accomplished fact, has given her a delightful taste of aggressive freedom. The American woman has boldly seized her mental opportunities and in some cases has forced them from the grasp of her fearful male opponent. BUT IN THAT STRUGGLE FOR INTELLECTUAL GREATNESS WHICH WOMAN HAS BEEN MAKING FOR THE LAST HALF CENTURY SHE HAS FORGOTTEN THE REASON OF HER EXISTENCE, THE POWER OF HER WOMANHOOD AND THE GREAT MISSION OF HER BEING.

Wise counsel on the part of older women to the younger, instead of the sneer, and the teaching that it is woman's first duty to bear children and should be her pride and joy, for which she should be held in high honor and respect, are the antidotes.

Fox's Wit.

The following is one of the many stories told about Charles James Fox, the English statesman and orator:

Mr. Hare, envoy to the court of Poland, occupied rooms in the statesman's "diggings." He was a great personal friend and indeed a man of very similar tastes. They were each the objects of continual inquiry on the part of tradesmen and others. One day Fox, looking out of the upper window, descried two men watching the house and waiting. With a genial smile, he shouted, "Pray, gentlemen, will you tell me, are you Fox hunting or Hare hunting today?"

The bailiffs were so tickled that they went away.

The Listener at the Door.

"Did she say, 'This is so sudden?'"

"No; her mother was listening at the keyhole, and she didn't dare to throw on any frills."

"How do you know her mother was there?"

"Because stooping over shuts off her wind, and you could hear her gasping all over the room."

"Well, what did Minnie say?"

"She whispered: 'Cut it short, Jack. Ma is apoplectic.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Confusing.

"Ah nevah could undahstan'," said Charcoal Eph as he helped himself to a piece of corn bread, "w'y er man blow on he soup ter git hit cool, blow on he han's ter keep dem wahm an' blow on hisse'f ter beat de ban'. Hab some ob de fowl, Mistah Jackson?"—Baltimore News.

Last Words at the Farmhouse.

"Now, Hiram, don't look out the car window or shake hands with strangers."

"All right, Mehitable, an' don't you sign any contracts with book agents."—Indianapolis News.

Hooligan's Birthday.

"Yis," said Hooligan as he stuck his piece of pipe between his lips and rolled some tobacco in his hands, "it's wanderful how toime flies. Yisterday Oi was only fifty-wan, an' today Oi'm fifty-too. Got a matcn, Dougherty?"—Indianapolis Sun.

Blunders of Painters.

A picture representing the four elements was essayed by an Italian artist, and he selected fish to indicate the sea, moles the earth and a salamander fire. The chameleon was intended as the allegorical representative of the air, but the painter, having no model of this animal and knowing nothing about its shape, contented himself by introducing a camel. He probably thought in his ignorance that from a similarity of sounds they were one and the same animal.

Another painter in a picture of the crucifixion represented a father confessor holding out a crucifix to the repentant thief who was promised a place in paradise by the Saviour.

A Honeymoon Financier.

Judge Edwards of Lee county, who has married over a hundred couples since he has been ordinary, performed the ceremony recently for a runaway couple seated in a buggy in the public road.

The ceremony over, the bridegroom fumbled in his pocket and fished up 66 cents.

"Jedge," he said, "this here's all the money I got in the roun' worl'. Ef you're a mind to take it, you kin, but I'll say straightfor'ards that I'd done sot it aside fer the honeymoon expenses!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Carlyle's View of Aprons.

Carlyle in his "Sartor Resartus" was able to find a deep philosophy in aprons. "Aprons are defenses against injury to cleanliness, to safety, to modesty, sometimes to roguery. From the thin slip of notched silk (as it were, the emblem and beatified ghost of an apron) which some highest bred housewife has gracefully fastened on to the thick tanned hide girt around him with thongs, wherein the builder builds and at evening sticks his trowel, or to those jingling sheet iron aprons wherein your otherwise half naked Vulcans hammer and smelt in their smelt furnace, is there not range enough in the fashion and uses of this vestment?"

Ancient Sacrifices to the Sea.

The navigators of antiquity, to whose imaginative ignorance the ocean seemed peopled and beset with chimeras dire and supernatural agencies of all sorts, used often to sacrifice human lives to the mysterious water gods. It is regarded by tradition that Idomeneus, king of Crete, vowed to sacrifice to Neptune the first living thing he met after escaping from a storm, and this happening to be his son he fulfilled his vow religiously. Medea nearly became a sacrifice during the return voyage of the Argonauts.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR Basket Shares at 50 cts.

Steady Increase of Interest in the Great Organization Which Now Overshadows the Basket-Making Industry of this Country.

Reason for the great and increasing demand for shares of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. is not far to seek.

It is due to popular approval of the Company's plans and to popular comprehension of the Company's great future.

Previous publication of the great scope and money earning power of this Company's field of operations has been made in this newspaper. Whole communities have become interested in the undoubted power of the Company's automatic basket-making machines to completely revolutionize the basket industry. It is safe to say that every county in every State in the Union has representation among the present shareholders.

This Company is composed of shareholders who are participating in increase of values as the various allotments of shares are taken up. The present allotment at

50 Cents a Share

(Par Value $1.00, Full-Paid and Non-Assessable)

is being subscribed more rapidly than any previous allotment.

This is because it is plain to all that the shares of this Company, which will control the prices and product of an important and growing industry, must steadily advance as the Company's plans develop into action.

Facts for the Consideration of Investors.

The actual yearly demand exceeds Two Billion Baskets.

Value at wholesale, Eleven Million Dollars.

The net profit on this volume of business last year was $1,387,000.

The Baskets were all made by hand.

Each Mergenthaler-Horton Company machine does the work of twelve men.

The saving in labor by the use of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machines amounts to more than TWO MILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY.

This gives earnings for the company of OVER THREE MILLION THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, OR OVER THIRTY-THREE PER CENT. ON THE ENTIRE CAPITAL ON THE PRESENT VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

This volume increases at the rate of over 150,000,000 per year.

The machines may be seen in operation at the Robison Basket Company's factory, Painesville, O., where over thirty are installed; at Elmira, N. Y., at the machine shops of Emmett Horton, one of the inventors, and at Sodus, N. Y., where they are also in operation.

The practical working of the machines is now shown in every office of the Company.

The Company will not sell or lease its machines, but will equip and own and operate basket factories all over this country.

ALL THE STOCK IS COMMON STOCK.

There are no preferred shares, no bonds, and no debts. Early shareholders now see their shares double in value. New subscribers will see their shares double in value, and still the limit of price for these shares will not be reached, because just as surely as the Linotype Machine pays its shareholders twenty per cent. on ten millions of capital, just so surely will the Automatic Basket-Making Machines, which save three times as much labor as the Linotype, earn dividends which will make the shares of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company sought for at prices which are beyond present computation.

OTTMAR MERGENTHALER'S EXACT WORDS.

The Famous Inventor's Opinion of the Basket Machines now Owned and Controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. Full Story of Mr. Mergenthaler's connection with These Machines.

Ottmar Mergenthaler, inventor of the Linotype Machine and inventor of one of the Basket-Making Machines of this Company, made the following statement about one year before his death.

"This machine is as much a revolution in basket-making as the Linotype has proven to be in typesetting, and I do not see why a company owning and controlling the patents should not receive an immense revenue."

Mr. Mergenthaler continued to take the deepest interest in the Basket Machine, and the last efforts of his life were in connection with the Machine and watching its operation.

The patent on the Basket Machine invented by Ottmar Mergenthaler was issued to his estate December 31st, 1901, and is numbered 690,322. Copies of this patent may be secured on application to the Patent Office in Washington, or by calling at any office of this Company, and each copy bears the assignment of all right and title in the patent to the Horton Basket Machine Company, which Company has been absorbed and is controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co.

NOTE. Beyond the fact that several directors and a number of shareholders of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. are shareholders and officers in the above mentioned Horton Basket Machine Co., now absolutely controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co., there is no connection whatever between the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. and the Mergenthaler Linotype Co.

The foregoing is an official statement of facts made by authority of the Board of Directors of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. (Signed) CHARLES R. BARLOW, Treasurer.

of New York have been torn up and rendered impassable to the public for months at a time.

In Chicago a work of practically equal magnitude has been going on under ground, but as there have been no torn up streets or any external evidences of the work it has escaped public notice. With the single exception that much of the New York excavation has to be made through solid rock, while that of the Chicago project is through the treacherous blue clay that underlies the city, there is but little difference from an engineering standpoint in the character of the two enterprises, except that New York's subway is being built on the credit of the municipality, while that in Chicago is being constructed by a private corporation.

Today in the business portion of Chicago there are over five miles of these tunnels completed, and the rate of construction is over a mile a month. A thousand men, working in eight hour shifts, are rushing this gigantic work, and by the 1st of September the downtown system of tunnels, which will comprise thirteen miles in all, will have been completed. Yet this will be only a beginning. Before the plans of the corporation building this subterranean network will have reached completion over fifty miles of tunnel will have been built.

These tunnels are intended to carry the wires of the new telephone company. In building the tunnels, however, the company has not constructed them with a view of utilizing them for that purpose alone; hence the size of the underground bore. Under most of the streets the tunnel is 8 feet high by 6 in width. In others, however, the tunnel is 14 feet high by 12 feet in width, or large enough to take the telephone cable in on its reels and enable the workmen to properly distribute it.

Under its franchise the company which is constructing these tunnels has the right not only to string the wires for its telephone service, but to transmit mails and newspapers. This is why the tunnels have been made so large.

Boston has just completed a most elaborate underground system of railroad which connects with nearly all the ferries and railway stations in that city and is at present the best existing subway system in the world.

For many years London has had underground railways, but they were run on such primitive methods as to excite ridicule. Recently Charles T. Yerkes of New York secured control of one of the roads and has been improving and adding to it and ripping open the bowels of London generally. The trains on the new road are operated and lighted by electricity, and the stations are lined with white tile. This road proved an immediate success, and its earnings the past year have been large. Mr. Yerkes is preparing to still further extend the system.

A little gain in strength each day—a little gain in weight each day—if continued for weeks, amounts to something.

THE NEW WOMAN
VERSUS THE
OLD TIME MOTHER

By Mrs. SUSAN YOUNG GATES of Utah

IT HAS REMAINED FOR THE GREAT CIVILIZATION OF THE NINETEENTH AND TWENTIETH CENTURIES TO IMPOSE UPON WOMANHOOD THE BURDEN OF REGRET AND OFTEN OF SHAME IF SHE BECOMES THE MOTHER OF A LARGE FAMILY OF CHILDREN.

Large families are sneered at, and young girls are taught before marriage that large families are a burden and care, not a blessing, to their country and to their parents. Society, or, rather, too much of it, also comes in for a share of the blame. What are the women of America thinking and doing about this grave problem? Study the census returns in all their significance. Traverse the New England states and observe the half empty schoolrooms. Go to the great centers of population and enter the common schools, observing the nationalities of the children of the United States, and what is the result? Thousands of Russian children are there and nearly as many Germans, while Italians in ever increasing ratio crowd into our places of public instruction.

Where are the descendants of the pilgrim fathers and the Puritan mothers, whose families were often fifteen in number and seldom less than seven? If their descendants had followed in the footsteps of their forbears, they would today have been the dominant people of America in numbers as well as in intelligence.

Where are the old Knickerbocker families of New York? And where, may we ask, are the pure descendants of the courtly southern families? The mental emancipation of woman, which is already an accomplished fact, has given her a delightful taste of aggressive freedom. The American woman has boldly seized her mental opportunities and in some cases has forced them from the grasp of her fearful male opponent. BUT IN THAT STRUGGLE FOR INTELLECTUAL GREATNESS WHICH WOMAN HAS BEEN MAKING FOR THE LAST HALF CENTURY SHE HAS FORGOTTEN THE REASON OF HER EXISTENCE, THE POWER OF HER WOMANHOOD AND THE GREAT MISSION OF HER BEING.

Wise counsel on the part of older women to the younger, instead of the sneer, and the teaching that it is woman's first duty to bear children and should be her pride and joy, for which she should be held in high honor and respect, are the antidotes.

Fox's Wit.

The following is one of the many stories told about Charles James Fox, the English statesman and orator:

Mr. Hare, envoy to the court of Poland, occupied rooms in the statesman's "diggings." He was a great personal friend and indeed a man of very similar tastes. They were each the objects of continual inquiry on the part of tradesmen and others. One day Fox, looking out of the upper window, descried two men watching the house and waiting. With a genial smile, he shouted, "Pray, gentlemen, will you tell me, are you Fox hunting or Hare hunting today?"

The bailiffs were so tickled that they went away.

The Listener at the Door.

"Did she say, 'This is so sudden?'"

"No; her mother was listening at the keyhole, and she didn't dare to throw on any frills."

"How do you know her mother was there?"

"Because stooping over shuts off her wind, and you could hear her gasping all over the room."

"Well, what did Minnie say?"

"She whispered: 'Cut it short, Jack. Ma is apoplectic.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Confusing.

"Ah nevah could undahstan'," said Charcoal Eph as he helped himself to a piece of corn bread, "w'y er man blow on he soup ter git hit cool, blow on he han's ter keep dem wahm an' blow on hisse'f ter beat de ban'. Hab some ob de fowl, Mistah Jackson?"—Baltimore News.

Last Words at the Farmhouse.

"Now, Hiram, don't look out the car window or shake hands with strangers."

"All right, Mehitable, an' don't you sign any contracts with book agents."—Indianapolis News.

Hooligan's Birthday.

"Yis," said Hooligan as he stuck his piece of pipe between his lips and rolled some tobacco in his hands, "it's wanderful how toime flies. Yisterday Oi was only fifty-wan, an' today Oi'm fifty-too. Got a matcn, Dougherty?"—Indianapolis Sun.

Blunders of Painters.

A picture representing the four elements was essayed by an Italian artist, and he selected fish to indicate the sea, moles the earth and a salamander fire. The chameleon was intended as the allegorical representative of the air, but the painter, having no model of this animal and knowing nothing about its shape, contented himself by introducing a camel. He probably thought in his ignorance that from a similarity of sounds they were one and the same animal.

Another painter in a picture of the crucifixion represented a father confessor holding out a crucifix to the repentant thief who was promised a place in paradise by the Saviour.

A Honeymoon Financier.

Judge Edwards of Lee county, who has married over a hundred couples since he has been ordinary, performed the ceremony recently for a runaway couple seated in a buggy in the public road.

The ceremony over, the bridegroom fumbled in his pocket and fished up 66 cents.

"Jedge," he said, "this here's all the money I got in the roun' worl'. Ef you're a mind to take it, you kin, but I'll say straightfor'ards that I'd done sot it aside fer the honeymoon expenses!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Carlyle's View of Aprons.

Carlyle in his "Sartor Resartus" was able to find a deep philosophy in aprons. "Aprons are defenses against injury to cleanliness, to safety, to modesty, sometimes to roguery. From the thin slip of notched silk (as it were, the emblem and beatified ghost of an apron) which some highest bred housewife has gracefully fastened on to the thick tanned hide girt around him with thongs, wherein the builder builds and at evening sticks his trowel, or to those jingling sheet iron aprons wherein your otherwise half naked Vulcans hammer and smelt in their smelt furnace, is there not range enough in the fashion and uses of this vestment?"

Ancient Sacrifices to the Sea.

The navigators of antiquity, to whose imaginative ignorance the ocean seemed peopled and beset with chimeras dire and supernatural agencies of all sorts, used often to sacrifice human lives to the mysterious water gods. It is regarded by tradition that Idomeneus, king of Crete, vowed to sacrifice to Neptune the first living thing he met after escaping from a storm, and this happening to be his son he fulfilled his vow religiously. Medea nearly became a sacrifice during the return voyage of the Argonauts.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR Basket Shares at 50 cts.

Steady Increase of Interest in the Great Organization Which Now Overshadows the Basket-Making Industry of this Country.

Reason for the great and increasing demand for shares of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. is not far to seek.

It is due to popular approval of the Company's plans and to popular comprehension of the Company's great future.

Previous publication of the great scope and money earning power of this Company's field of operations has been made in this newspaper. Whole communities have become interested in the undoubted power of the Company's automatic basket-making machines to completely revolutionize the basket industry. It is safe to say that every county in every State in the Union has representation among the present shareholders.

This Company is composed of shareholders who are participating in increase of values as the various allotments of shares are taken up. The present allotment at

50 Cents a Share

(Par Value $1.00, Full-Paid and Non-Assessable)

is being subscribed more rapidly than any previous allotment.

This is because it is plain to all that the shares of this Company, which will control the prices and product of an important and growing industry, must steadily advance as the Company's plans develop into action.

Facts for the Consideration of Investors.

The actual yearly demand exceeds Two Billion Baskets.

Value at wholesale, Eleven Million Dollars.

The net profit on this volume of business last year was $1,387,000.

The Baskets were all made by hand.

Each Mergenthaler-Horton Company machine does the work of twelve men.

The saving in labor by the use of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machines amounts to more than TWO MILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY.

This gives earnings for the company of OVER THREE MILLION THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, OR OVER THIRTY-THREE PER CENT. ON THE ENTIRE CAPITAL ON THE PRESENT VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

This volume increases at the rate of over 150,000,000 per year.

The machines may be seen in operation at the Robison Basket Company's factory, Painesville, O., where over thirty are installed; at Elmira, N. Y., at the machine shops of Emmett Horton, one of the inventors, and at Sodus, N. Y., where they are also in operation.

The practical working of the machines is now shown in every office of the Company.

The Company will not sell or lease its machines, but will equip and own and operate basket factories all over this country.

ALL THE STOCK IS COMMON STOCK.

There are no preferred shares, no bonds, and no debts. Early shareholders now see their shares double in value. New subscribers will see their shares double in value, and still the limit of price for these shares will not be reached, because just as surely as the Linotype Machine pays its shareholders twenty per cent. on ten millions of capital, just so surely will the Automatic Basket-Making Machines, which save three times as much labor as the Linotype, earn dividends which will make the shares of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company sought for at prices which are beyond present computation.

OTTMAR MERGENTHALER'S EXACT WORDS.

The Famous Inventor's Opinion of the Basket Machines now Owned and Controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. Full Story of Mr. Mergenthaler's connection with These Machines.

Ottmar Mergenthaler, inventor of the Linotype Machine and inventor of one of the Basket-Making Machines of this Company, made the following statement about one year before his death.

"This machine is as much a revolution in basket-making as the Linotype has proven to be in typesetting, and I do not see why a company owning and controlling the patents should not receive an immense revenue."

Mr. Mergenthaler continued to take the deepest interest in the Basket Machine, and the last efforts of his life were in connection with the Machine and watching its operation.

The patent on the Basket Machine invented by Ottmar Mergenthaler was issued to his estate December 31st, 1901, and is numbered 690,322. Copies of this patent may be secured on application to the Patent Office in Washington, or by calling at any office of this Company, and each copy bears the assignment of all right and title in the patent to the Horton Basket Machine Company, which Company has been absorbed and is controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co.

NOTE. Beyond the fact that several directors and a number of shareholders of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. are shareholders and officers in the above mentioned Horton Basket Machine Co., now absolutely controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co., there is no connection whatever between the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. and the Mergenthaler Linotype Co.

The foregoing is an official statement of facts made by authority of the Board of Directors of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. (Signed) CHARLES R. BARLOW, Treasurer.

NEW ROAD BILL PASSES SENATE

Will Become a Law After House Concurs in a Slight Amendment.

COLUMBIANA AND STARK

The Counties to Which It Is Applicable—Meeting of the Smiths—Bill Relating to County Treasurers' Percentages—Capital Gossip.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, April 4.—The Metzger road bill, applying to Stark and Columbiana counties, was passed by the senate yesterday. Senator Connell amended it so as to provide for the appointment of road masters instead of road commissioners, and also that they be selected subject to the approval of the county commissioners. The bill will go back to the house for concurrence in the amendment and then will become a law.

The bill to retain the canals came up for passage in the senate yesterday, but action was deferred till next Tuesday. Senator Hose, of Cincinnati, introduced a bill providing that boards of education may establish a teachers' pension fund, the fund to be supported by contributions of $2 per month by the teachers for a period not less than 10 months in a year. The house made a law of the bill of Senator Roudabush providing that the statute of limitation shall not run in cases of delinquent taxes and authorizing county treasurers to contract for the collection at a rate not to exceed 25 per cent of the total amount collected.

Charles E. Smith, treasurer of Columbiana county, was at the state house yesterday, incidentally putting in a few strokes for the bill introduced to absolve him from the payment of funds lost by reason of the failure of the First National bank of Lisbon. This bill and also that providing for the relief of George D. Flugan, of Lisbon, bondsman of Cashier Child, are on the calendar and will be up for passage on Monday. Had a night session been held an attempt would have been made to rush both bills through last night.

Treasurer Smith, of Columbiana, and Treasurer T. Harvey Smith, of Stark, met at the state capital yesterday. Both were present when Representative Metzger introduced a bill which provides that when a suit is begun to collect back taxes, the percentage for the collection shall be paid to the treasurer who started the suit, whether he is in office when the suit is ended or not. Neither gentleman would admit that his presence in the city had anything to do with the bill.

Senator Connell again presided over the senate yesterday. The first time he filled the chair the members indulged in horse-play, but so well did he preserve his dignity and give back as good as he got, that there was no attempt made to repeat the farce when he took up the gavel again.

LYNN-FARRALL

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING CEREMONY AT ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

The Edifice Superbly Decorated—Music Furnished By Nowling's Orchestra.

St. Stephen's Episcopal church was the scene of a beautiful wedding last evening, when Rev. Edwin Weary pronounced the words which united forever the lives of Ernest V. Farrall, of this city, and Miss Carrie B. Lynn, formerly of Steubenville.

Easter lilies, palms and smilax were profusely in the decorations. As the bridal party entered Nowling's orchestra played the favorite "Lohengrin" wedding march. Miss May Lyon, of Coraopolis, Pa., acted as maid of honor. She wore a beautiful gown of pale green crepe de chene, en traine and elaborately trimmed with heavy lace. The bride, entering upon the arm of Mr. Priestly Hindle, looked beautiful in a white Persian lawn en traine and tastefully trimmed in lace and ribbon. Her hair was done a la Janice Meredith, as was that of the maid of honor.

The bridal party were met at the altar by the groom and Mr. M. E. Donaldson, best man. Throughout the ceremony the "Flower Song," played by the orchestra, could be faintly heard.

The ceremony concluded the bridal party retired to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march and were driven to their new home in the East End, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Farrall were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Mr. Farrall is foreman of the clay manufacturing department of the No. 2 plant of the Laughlin China company. He is also a member of Nowling's orchestra. The young couple have a host of friends. They left at midnight for a western trip, after which they will be at home to friends in the East End.

LORD KITCHENER'S BROTHER MET DELAREY AND KEMP.

Heavy Losses on Both Sides—Canadians Fought Till All Were Dead.

London, April 4.—(Special)—General Kitchener's brother Herbert's forces and Generals Delarey and Kemp, of the Boer forces, met in battle in the neighborhood of Hart's river, in the southwestern extremity of the Transvaal March 31. The engagement resulted in a repulse for the Boers, after heavy losses on both sides.

The Canadian Rifles especially distinguished themselves, one party, commanded by Lieut. Bruce Carruthers, holding its post till every man was killed or wounded.

CHURCH RECEPTION

AT THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH A VERY SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

A Large Attendance—New Members Welcomed With a Pleasing Program.

The reception held last evening by the members of the First M. E. church was the most successful social event the church has had in years. The missionary societies have for the last few weeks been combining their efforts with those of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Clark Crawford, who has left nothing undone. The attendance was large.

A reception committee consisting of Mrs. G. P. Ikirt, Miss Florence Updegraff, Mrs. Clark Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Golding, Mrs. T. F. Anderson, Jr., and Messrs. Morris, Dunlap and Shone had been chosen, together with a committee whose duty it was to introduce the new to the older members of the church.

An informal program was carried out, in which Dr. Wells, professor of science in Beaver college, and Miss Billingsley, professor of elocution at the same institution, and Miss Jones and Mr. Blount, of this city, took part. Every number was splendid and well received by the audience.

SAYS THE DEAL IS OFF

John Rinehart Says the Pennsylvania Company Was at Fault About the Contract.

While it may be considered that the deal for the transferring of the Rinehart property on Second street to the Pennsylvania Railroad company was closed, Mr. Rinehart holds that the railroad was at fault in its part of the contract, which provided that Mr. Rinehart would transfer his property to the company last Thursday, March 27.

Not until Monday of this week did representatives of the company call for the delivery of the property, and as the company failed to take the property at the time agreed upon, Mr. Rinehart claims the deal is off so far as he is concerned. This deal was made by George A. Wassman, local agent of the C. & P.

WAREHOUSEWOMEN IN BROTHERHOOD

Local No. 7606, A. F. L., Has Ceased to Exist and Is Now No. 62, N. B. of O. P.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

A New Price May Be Asked for the Making of a New Cover Dish at the Wallace & Chetwynd Plant. Pottery News.

Warehouse women's local No. 7606, American Federation of Labor, is a thing of the past, and the new local will be No. 62, N. B. of O. P. Last evening 300 members of this local met in Brotherhood hall, where they received the Brotherhood obligation conferred by National President A. S. Hughes, Secretary Duffy, Trustee Orr and William Blackmore.

It was 8:35 when the session was called to order by the president, Mrs. Jankins, and thrice was it necessary to place additional chairs in the hall. Sixty new members were received into the local at this meeting and 20 applications for membership were received. The charter of the local was closed last evening and hereafter the initiation fee will be $1.50, instead of 50 cents, as in the past.

After the charter was obtained by the local president, President Hughes made a short speech, in which he is quoted as saying that it was the largest local that was ever admitted into the Brotherhood, and that it was a pleasure seldom afforded to a national officer to confer an obligation to such a large local.

Pressers at the Wallace and Chetwynd will likely ask for more compensation for the making of a new cover dish, a part of the new dinner shape now being made there. The new dish is one of very handsome design, and by far the neatest ever turned out at the plant. The workmen claim it is much harder to make than other cover dishes, but so far have not asked for an adjustment of the price. It is customary in taking up a new shape to work upon it for several pays in order to have a clear idea as to what it is worth to turn it out.

Daniel E. McNicol, of the McNicol company, who has been in Kentucky for several days on business, returned to the city Wednesday evening. Mr. McNicol is interested in some clay deposits in that state.

James Witherow, who has been operating a cup jigger at the Union since that plant started under new management, has resigned his position. His place at the Union will be looked after by Charles Kroul.

Miss Ada Eardley, of the decorating department of the Brunt pottery, very pleasantly entertained a number of her young friends at her home on Watcroo street Wednesday evening.

Information has been received in the city that not less than $20,000 of local capital is much desired by the American Land and Development company of New York, for the purpose of operating a valuable clay deposit in

MANY ENGINEERS IN ATTENDANCE

Important Session of the Local Association, Addressed by State Examiner.

SCIENTIFIC DISCUSSIONS

Were Listened to With Marked Interest, Which Proved to Be Highly Instructive — Wellsville Engineers Also in Attendance.

Calhoun Association No. 41, of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, held an important meeting last evening in the hall in the Oyster building. Several members of the Wellsville association were present and, aside from being shown an evening's enjoyment from a social standpoint, were given much valuable information.

State Examiner E. E. Miller, of Canton, was the leading speaker of the evening, and with O. C. Pillishody, chief electrician of the Steubenville & Mingo Traction company, claimed the attention of the assembly until a late hour.

No business session was held and after the president had called for order Mr. Pillishody was introduced, who spoke intelligently and entertainingly concerning electric railway power plants.

It was claimed by the speaker that only a few successful power plants are at the present time in operation, though, he stated, that rapid strides in overcoming imperfections are being made. Concerning the generation of current he stated that this all important detail is only in its infancy.

Mr. Pillishody gave a description of the equipment of the older power plants and told what was needed to increase their capacity and put them up to the standard. He stated that high tension transmission of power would soon be in universal use, for the reason, he explained, that the current can thus be distributed for an almost unlimited distance. The voltage needed for power houses was explained in detail, as was also the manner in which the current is distributed.

In concluding his address, Mr. Pillishody spoke of the cost of operating an electric railway. He stated that lines with steep grades required the most expense to operate for the reason, the motors, now most commonly used on the cars, constantly get out of repair. He gave it as his belief that it would not be long until all cars would be equipped with induction motors, which have no commutator or brushes and which require practically no attention.

Following the applause which Mr. Pillishody's speech drew forth, the president introduced State Examiner Miller, who, in his characteristic and happy manner, made an able address in which he told of the necessary qualifications of a competent engineer.

Taking for his subject "The Mechanics of the Steam Plant," Mr. Miller, who was himself an engineer for 20 years, began by stating that the most successful mechanics were those who studied the fundamental principles of the machines operated by them. He went on to state how an engineer could, by close application to his work and by carefully watching the engines, boilers, etc., under his care, quickly command due recognition of his services from his employer.

The claim was made by Mr. Miller that he could generally tell a good engineer by the clothes he wore. He stated that greasy floors and dirty machinery always indicated to him that the man in charge was careless or incompetent. He also made the claim that by keeping machinery free from dirt or grease it was made an easy matter to discover flaws or breaks.

Sobriety, the speaker declared, was an absolute requisite in the performance of an engineer's work. He told the need of a technical training and said that engineers of today who were without this knowledge were rapidly being transplanted by others having better experience.

In closing his address Mr. Miller gave a scientific explanation of boilers, engines, safety valves, steam gauges, fly wheels, etc., which he illustrated on a blackboard. The knowledge thus conveyed to those of the spectators was of incalculable benefit and greatly appreciated.

The local association is composed of 41 members. The officers are Morris Baxter, president; Ed Cox, vice president; Robert Orrin, corresponding secretary; Milton Dunlap, recording secretary; Claybourne Gould, treasurer; Dink Herron, conductor; Con. Halderman, door keeper; trustees, M. E. Baxter, George Wilhelm and B. F. Orr.

All members of the association are first-class mechanics and among the city's best citizens. The order is in a prosperous condition and growing rapidly.

Several engineers were put through an examination yesterday afternoon by State Examiner Miller.

GIVEN A BEATING

Self-Appointed Detective of Lisbon Is Disobeyed And Whipped.

Lisbon, April 4. — (Special) — Will De Garmo, a well known character of Lisbon, who is under the delusions that he is a world famous detective, came to the mayor's office yesterday afternoon with a badly battered face and a considerable story.

He said that Ham Adams had thrown him down in the mud and severely pounded him, for no reason whatever. De Garmo had not arrested Adams, as he did not have his star with him and the offense was not committed on his beat, nor was he on duty at the time.

Adams came to the mayor later, expressing willingness to stand trial. He said De Garmo had ordered him to quit work on an engine, threatening to shoot him unless he obeyed his orders. On his refusal to quit work De Garmo was about to enforce his orders with a big stone that he had picked up. Adams says he then acted in self-defense.

De Garmo's delusion is well known, but this is the first occasion it has caused any disturbance.

FIRST CLASS ROAD IN ALL RESPECTS

Plans For the New Railway From This City to Lisbon.

RIGHT OF WAY CONTRACTS

Secured Some Time Ago Had Expired And Will Have to Be Renewed. Latest Improved Interurban Cars Promised for the Road.

While very few facts concerning the new cross-county road can be learned from officials of the East Liverpool Railway company, on account of the illness of L. W. Healy, a member of that company this morning said:

"While all the right of way has been secured, the closing of these contracts will require about a month's time. It will be remembered that about two years ago this company secured the right of way for a cross-county road, but these land contracts were for a term of one year. When the time expired and no road was built, we once more took options on rights of way, and for good. It will not require much labor to secure the final contracts, and as soon as that work is completed we will commence to secure bids for the construction of the road, which will be in operation just as soon as possible."

"To what extent is the East Liverpool Railway company interested in this road?" was asked the official.

"I am not at liberty to give out any information regarding this matter, but I can say that we have the hard work to do."

"From what source will the new road secure its power?"

"I can say that several power stations will have to be built along this road, but these we term 'boosters.' No power will be secured from this company, other than that which will be used in East Liverpool, provided these cars are operated that far."

"What about the new cars?"

"Practically nothing on this matter has been decided upon. It usually follows when such long roads are built to secure cars containing all accommodations. I feel safe in assuming that such cars will be used on this road. By accommodations I mean there will be toilet rooms, smoking compartments, and possibly wash stands. Many such cars are now in use in interurban roads, and as to the speed, on a level stretch of country these cars will be capable of making not less than a mile a minute."

Entertained Their Friends.

Misses Alice and Susie Firth very pleasantly entertained a number of friends last evening at their home on Second street, in honor of their sister, Miss Emily, who is spending her Easter vacation in the city. The decorations were pink and green. Music and games were features of the evening. About 20 young people had a delightful time. Miss Emily Firth leaves Tuesday for Wooster to resume her studies.

CHICKEN ORDINANCE

Mayor Davidson Proposes to Enforce It—Gives Warning to Owners of Fowls.

A large number of complaints have been made to the mayor the past few days from residents of different parts of the city who are troubled with chickens which are allowed to run at large.

A city ordinance forbids the owners of fowls to allow them to leave their premises, and the mayor states that any or all persons who violate the mandate may expect to be fined.

Taken in an Ambulance.

Frank Clunk, a biscuit kilnman at the Diamond, just as he was ready to start to work this morning suffered an attack of heart trouble, and had to be removed to his home in the West End in the city ambulance. His condition this afternoon was improved.

Again at Home.

Charles Mulherron, who was injured at McNicol's pottery some time ago, has returned to the city. He spent several weeks in a Cleveland hospital, and has since been at his home in Salineville.

Entertained at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kelly gave a very delightful arranged 6 o'clock dinner last evening. Covers were laid for 14, and the decorations were in pink and very tasteful.

Official announcement was received in the East End this morning to the effect that the next session of the Steubenville district conference of the M. E. church would be held in the Erie street M. NEW BUILDINGS PLANNED

On Which Work Will Soon Be Started in the East End District.

More building is being planned for the East End district. Plans are now being made for a five-room residence to be built in Helena by Milton Martin, and it is expected the excavating for the foundation will commence not later than next week. This morning work was commenced excavating for the cellar for a new seven-room residence to be built on St. George street by Mrs. Kramer. This residence, when completed, will be one of the most modern in the East End.

Bids have also been asked during the week for the building of no less than five other residences in this part of the city, but the contracts for these will not be let for at least 10 days.

AGAIN MAKING BRICK

East End Plant in Operation—New Machines Work Perfectly.

Once more the East End brick plant was started in full operation this morning and brick were made during the day by the thousand. The new machine, never before used here, was found to work in perfect order, and the new blowing arrangements in the kilns, for the purpose of making a more intense heat, worked to perfection. These blower connections cost $5 apiece, and when the new kiln is completed the company will have about 50 connections in use.

There are two modern brick machines at this factory. One will be used for the making of pressed brick, while the other will be used for the making of fire brick.

Attachment Proceeding.

An attachment proceeding was entered in the court of Justice L. W. Carman, of the East End, yesterday morning by John H. Maddock, living near Dry Run, against Charles Farthingham, for $4. The case was settled last evening.

Pleasant Surprise Party.

ANIMATED AND BUOYANT.

Granger and Transcontinental Railroad Stocks the Surprises of New York Market.

New York, April 4.—The Granger and Transcontinental railroad stocks developed surprising animation and buoyancy within a few minutes of Wednesday's closing dealings in stocks, and were rushed up in a sensational manner, which precipitated an eager scramble among the bears to cover, thus accentuating the rise. Previous to that time the character of the market had been much the same as that prevailing for a long time. There was a rather notable demand for St. Paul, but not greater than consistent with the recent tactics of professional pools in supporting some one leading stock for effect on the rest of the market. The general list continued neglected and irregular, with obvious profit-taking going on in some of the stocks which were strongest Wednesday or in the immediate past. The demand for Hocking Valley continued very large, carrying it up six points, the preferred rising 3¼, Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling, 6½; Kanawha and Michigan, 2¼, and Ann Arbor preferred, 4. These stocks seemed to be influenced in sympathy. There was a long list of gain srunning from was a long list of gains running from simply recoveries from depression of Wednesday. At the same time Amalgamated Copper, Colorado Fuel, United States Leather preferred and the minor steel stocks were rather acutely depressed by realizing sales. When St. Paul reached the later stages of its advance it encountered blocks of offerings running up 7,000 shares, but rose steadily through them all to 169¾. The stock closed practically at the top, with a gain of 4 points. Chicago and Northwestern shot up 7¼, the preferred 11¼, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha 11 and the preferred 4. It was not until within 15 minutes of the close that these movements produced any appreciable effect on the general market.

The bond market was not very active, but there was a well-distributed demand. Total sales, par value, $3 620,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

China Finally Waking Up.

Washington, April 4.—The state department made public copies of two Chinese edicts which were sent by United States Minister Conger at Pekin under date of Feb. 6. The first edict removes the prohibition of intermarriage between Manchus and Chinese, and bids Chinese officials and gentry to persuade Chinese women to do away with the old custom of foot-binding. The other edict contemplates the sending abroad of competent Chinamen to study western methods in order to extend the international relations of the empire.

Threaten to Move Plant.

Youngstown, O., April 4.—The 300 employes on strike at the local plant of the American Bridge company were discharged and paid off yesterday. The men were informed that unless the strike was settled the company would dismantle the plant and move it elsewhere. The strike was the result of the management's filling the places of 25 boy rivet-heaters who went on strike Monday for higher wages.

AN ABUSE OF POWER.

Justice Gaynor's Reason for Denying Injunction Against Strikers.

New York, April 4.—Justice Gaynor, in the supreme court, Brooklyn, denied an injunction asked for by Frank Herzog and Louis Erb, bookbinders, to restrain J. L. Fitzgerald and other strikers from patrolling and picketing streets in the vicinity of the plaintiff's place of business. Justice Gaynor said:

"This is not a case for an injunction in advance of a trial. No violence has been done to persons or property. Capital and labor have an equal right to organize, as is now recognized by all sensible people. The courts should not interfere except in a case of obvious necessity. When courts and judges of first instance have gone beyond this, it has been an abuse of power."

Attorney General Elkin's Opinion on the Assignment of Claims for Debt.

PENALTY FOR THE ASSIGNORS.

Debtors Against Whom Claims Are Pressed for Payment May Then Recover From Their Original Creditors—Warning to Merchants.

Harrisburg, April 4.—Attorney General Elkin gave as his legal opinion that under the act of 1887, relating to the assignment of claims, if the West Virginia claim agency presses the writs of attachment of wages against railroaders and compels the railroad companies to pay the debt, the railroaders may proceed against the merchants or other creditors making assignment of their claims, and, under the law, recover from them as a penalty the full amount of debt, interest and costs so collected.

Some time ago B. Frank Snavely, C. A. Johnson and other employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, wishing to ascertain what legal right the West Virginia collection agency had to hold up the wages of railroad employes in this city, Altoona and other points along the Pennsylvania line, for debt, sent a letter to Attorney General Elkin, stating the case and asking his opinion on the subject. Mr. Elkin concludes his opinion as follows:

"This whole system of making collections is vicious, savors of sharp practice, and should not be encouraged. It seems to me that when our merchants and other creditors fully understand the true character of the suits instituted, and the penalty which they must pay in case such are pressed against them, they will refrain from making assignments of claims for this purpose."

SWIFT JUSTICE FOR LANE.

Murderous Butler's Trial Will Begin and End Today.

Philadelphia, April 4.—Two indictments for murder were returned late yesterday afternoon by the grand jury against William H. Lane, the colored butler, who on Tuesday killed Ella Jarden, otherwise known as Mrs. Ella J. Furbush, and her 10-year-old daughter, Madeline, and probably fatally shot the 7-year-old child, Eloise, for the purpose of robbery. The court immediately assigned counsel to legally defend him, and his trial will begin and end today. Before the grand jury Lane pleaded guilty to the two charges, which makes it certain that he will be convicted of murder in the first degree today.

It is the intention of the district attorney to immediately send the case to the governor, who under the law fixes the date of the execution of capital cases at not less than 30 days from the date a prisoner is sentenced to death. It is expected that the governor will fix the date of the execution of Lane as early as the law will permit. If the intentions of the officers of the law are carried out, it will be the quickest case of conviction and execution of the sentence of death in the annals of capital cases in this state.

The condition of the child Eloise is critical.

Men Won't Push Cars.

Altoona, Pa., April 4.—The cause of the strike of the 10,000 miners of the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron Company was the demand of the men that mules be used to haul mine cars into and out of the mine, instead of compelling the men to move the cars. Yesterday General Manager L. W. Robinson proposed to supply mules to haul loaded cars, but insisted that the men must push empty cars. A miners' official said the proposition would be rejected.

Men were put to work yesterday to get the plant ready for resumption June 1, when 600 men will be employed.

Alleged Macedonian Atrocities.

London, April 4.—A dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, says 14 revolutionary bands crossed the frontier into Macedonia during the past few days. A party of Turks recently ambushed 200 Bulgarian outlaws in the mountains of Kirzev, killing several of the band and capturing the remainder. The Macedonians are accused of horrible atrocities. It is reported that they skinned one Turk alive, stuffed the skin and carried it around as a trophy.

Turtle Eggs.

Turtle eggs are an acquired taste with most people, although they are not so with bears. They have a rough, yellow yolk and a white like any other egg, but you can cook them for a year and the white part will remain liquid. Notice a curious dimple in the side of each one. If you squeeze it out, the dimple appears on the other side, and you can never get hold of a turtle egg which hasn't got a dimple in it.

Interest in the approaching election in this city ought to be much deeper and more general than it appears to be on the surface. Of course it is settled that the whole Republican ticket, and none of the Democrats' half-ticket, is to be elected. But there are greater issues than those of party to be decided—questions that interest every citizen, whatever his political faith. Of prime importance is the proposal to issue $20,000 of bonds to provide additional school room for the city. There can be no question that the proposed new school building is badly needed. Indeed, far more than the $20,000 proposed for the Bradshaw addition could be expended wisely and to great advantage for the present and future good of the city. But it is absolutely essential that additional accommodations should be provided immediately, and this amount will afford the needed relief. Good citizens do not want to see the schools suffer or be hampered for lack of room. The school bond proposition should carry by a large majority. Another question of moment to be decided next Monday is whether the registration laws, applicable in larger cities of the state, shall be adopted in East Liverpool. As with the bonds, no politics are involved in this question. Although the Republicans are sponsors for the bill which lately passed the legislature, their interest in registration is no greater than that of the minority parties. Every citizen who favors honest elections and a pure ballot should give hearty support to any measure calculated as this one is, to insure those results. Much has been said of the expense of putting the system in operation, but it would be trivial, compared with the benefits. The expense, when divided up, will be so small that nobody will feet it. By all means the city should vote for registration and to have all elections above suspicion.

The government is taking such energetic measures to educate the people on the subject of good roads that good results ought to follow. Martin Dodge, director of the division of road inquiry of the agriculture department, has just returned from a trip of 8,000 miles through the south, where he appears to have caused a genuine awakening on the subject of road building. Not only did the railroads furnish him free transportation, but interested manufacturers gave him machinery and material free of charge. Sample roads, a mile or so in length, were constructed in 20 different places. An interstate good roads convention was held at Charlottesville, Va., attended by many notable men, and presided over by Mr. Dodge. Unbounded enthusiasm on the subject appears to have been aroused and popular eagerness to gain information as to the best methods of road-building. Agriculture and every class of business will be benefited, if the southern expedition bears the fruit expected. It would not be a bad idea to bring the proper influence to bear and have Uncle Sam send a road expert to Columbiana county to give a few lessons. Mr. Dodge, it is reported, is about to visit Medina county on a similar mission. If the roads of Medina are in greater need of reform than those in this county, that section of the state is to be pitied.

It is proposed in a bill before congress to reprint all $1, $2 and $5 treasury notes, coin or silver certificates now in circulation and have the faces provided with blank lines for conversion into postal checks when desired. This would be the ordinary money of the day. Then when one wishes to send money by mail, say $2, he takes such a bill, writes on its face the name and address of the person or firm to whom it is to go, affixes a stamp, cancelling the stamp with his initials and date and signs his name on the back. The bill is thus transformed into a personal check on the government, good at the postoffice to which it is sent. Such a system would be of great use in rural communities and a public convenience. It would also be of vast benefit to business firms who do a mail business. The plan has received the approval of the postal authorities and of many prominent newspapers, besides being warmly commended by commercial men.

From all indications this section of Ohio, as well as that across the river in West Virginia, is soon to witness railroad building otherwise than on paper. This will be a refreshing novelty, and when the man with the pick appears he will be as welcome as the flowers in spring.

A London paper complains that "American influence pervades the whole of Europe." What's the odds? It's a healthy influence.

AT THE THEATER

Denman Thompson's "Our New Minister" comes back to the Grand on Monday, April 7. Rarely, if ever, did a play catch the fancy of theatergoers as did this latest production of the author of the "Old Homestead," for ever since its presentation a few weeks ago it has been the one topic of conversation in homes, on the street cars, in stores and on the streets. Don't miss it.

A long laugh set in smiles to the "Katzenjammer Kids" with the Blondells, is the attraction to appear at the Grand Tuesday evening, April 8. It is presented by clever comedians, dashing soubrettes and a large chorus of pretty girls who can sing and dance and make the hours merry.

Not a Practical Philanthropist.

One day last winter when it was very cold a richly dressed woman stopped and gazed sternly at an ice wagon that was drawn up beside the curb on Walnut street, near Fifteenth. She stood there for ten minutes. Then the iceman came out of a certain house, and she said to him, "Driver, why don't you blanket your horses?"

"Because, lady, the kump'ny don't furnish me no blankets," said the man.

"Then," exclaimed the woman, "you should cover them with your coat."

"All right, ma'am," said the driver, smiling. "You gimme your coat for the near hoss, an I'll put mine on the off one."

The woman, whose coat was of sealskin, could not think of a good retort to this, and she walked away in silence.—Philadelphia Record.

Twain and the Printer.

Mary Twain once had a trying experience with a compositor, one of those conscientious compositors who not only know, but know that they know. According to a writer in Harper's Weekly, Mr. Clemens had received from his publishers the proofs of a story which he considered as funny as anything he had ever written, but on reading the proofs he dismally discovered that the fun had been carefully eliminated. Mr. Clemens returned the proofs, congratulating the compositor upon having consumed "only one week in making sense of a story which he himself required two weeks to make nonsense of!"

Their Loss Our Gain.

ODD CLASSIFICATION.

The Way a Carload of Tramps Was Designated In Mexico.

In Mexico the billing of railroad freight requires a knowledge and precision which can only be attained by years of practice. This is due to the peculiar classification of various articles and the different rates of customs duties. A case recently occurred which severely taxed the ingenuity of the station agent, although he finally succeeded in meeting all requirements.

The town was overrun with tramps, and the council determined that steps must be taken to rid the city of them. It was finally decided to round them up and ship them out of the country. It would be too expensive to purchase tickets, so they concluded to hire stock cars and ship their tramps as freight.

The cars were procured, and by the aid of the police the tramps were gathered, but then the question arose as to how the shipment should be designated on the bill of lading.

The term "persons" could not be used, as it would conflict with the state law relative to proper accommodations for the traveling public, and it would also be in violation of the company's rules governing the rates of passenger traffic. "Marketable commodities" would not do, as that would subject the carload to a heavy duty upon crossing the tariff zone. Again they would have to be classified as "perishable" or the dispatcher might order the car sidetracked along the line.

But fortunately there is a customs law which exempts certain kinds of curiosities from duty, and so, after much consideration, the tramps were billed and forwarded as so many hundredweight of "perishable curiosities—unfit to eat."

How New York Sleeps.

New York is a city of infinite variety. There are those who have beds without sleep and those who sleep without beds. Three thousand of her winter residents slumber in the cradles of the canal barges that come each year from the canals of New York state, from the great lakes and Lake Champlain to spend the winter months moored in New York harbor. In the tenement districts a man, his wife and his four or six or eight or more children sleep in a single room, and one who goes about the city finds many a device for slumber and repose. On Washington street, on the west side, where the Turks, the Greeks, the Assyrians and the Egyptians live near neighbors to a colony of Irish, is a queer little oriental hotel on the top floor of a tenement.—Leslie's Weekly.

Confederate Camp Flags.

The Confederate stars and bars were in 1863 supplemented by the camp flag. This was in size and shape like the other, except that it was white, with no stripes, and the battleflag in the upper corner next the staff. It was found deficient in actual service in that, displaying so much white, it was sometimes apt to be mistaken for a flag of truce, and on Feb. 24, 1865, it gave place to the last flag of the Confederacy, the outer half being a red vertical bar. Appearing so late in the war, it was not so familiar as the others—in fact, it was comparatively little known.

Rome's Churches.

The guidebooks are responsible for the popular impression that there are 365 churches in Rome, one for every day in the year, but that is a mistake. The exact number is 352, including the four great basilicas outside the walls. Besides these there are about 918 chapels connected with monasteries, nunneries, schools and private palaces and a large number of shrines erected by individuals in different parts of the city to fulfill vows or show gratitude for deliverance from peril or sickness. There are 68 monastic establishments, 42 for monks and 26 for nuns.

The Umbrella Conscience.

A correspondent contributes another to the series of umbrella myths. During a smart shower a gentleman who was unprovided hurriedly overtook an acquaintance whom he chanced to see some distance ahead of him carrying an umbrella, intending to ask if he might be permitted to share its shelter. He was almost up to him, when suddenly the other turned around and with a guilty look thrust it into his hands and vanished.—London Globe.

PROTESTS ARE MADE

By Business Men Against the Torn Up Condition of Clark Avenue.

Clark avenue residents are filing protests galore with the city councilmen as a result of the torn up condition of the avenue left so by the street railway company. The protests are in vain, as the company was authorized by council to finish the laying of the track when most convenient.

According to the franchise the track was to be completed by April 1. Owing to the plan of relaying of the water main by the company no specific date was set. Manager Healy has flatly refused to dig the trench for the water main, and it is the opinion of the council that he should either start digging immediately or finish laying the track and thereby rid the avenue of obstructing piles of dirt and rocks. Business men who have occasion to deliver merchandise, etc., in the West End are also protesting.

COUNTY TO RAISE BRIDGE

Over Little Yellow Creek, Provided the City Makes the Approaches.

The county bridge over Little Yellow creek will be raised by the county commissioners, providing the city council will agree to make the approach at each end of the bridge and also assume all responsibility that may be incurred in establishing a new grade.

A letter to that effect was received from the commissioners by E. G. Whitacre, a member of council, yesterday. This action of the commissioners may not be sanctioned by the councilmen, who contend that the bridge belongs to the county and that the county should bear all the expense of raising it.

At the next regular meeting of the council the proposition will be considered and a reply forwarded to the commissioners.

Iron and Copper.

The world could not get along today without iron and copper. The entire loss of all the gold and silver in the world would not be nearly so serious as would be a sudden exhaustion of all the iron and copper, since iron is used for all purposes of construction, and copper is an absolute requisite in the use of electricity to the enormous extent which now obtains.

EDUCATING MINERS

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO AID IN THE WORK.

A Business of Vast Importance—Lottery Idea Eliminated From It.

A bill now pending in congress will doubtless prove of great interest to miners and investors in mining property. The bill provides for the application of a portion of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands to the endowment, support and maintenance of schools or department of mines and mining in the several states and territories in connection with the colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanical arts, established in accordance with the provisions of an act of congress approved July 2, 1862.

This bill with some modifications concerning Colorado, should be passed. In this state we have a school of mines which has acquired a reputation scarcely second to any similar institution in the world, and the placing of the appropriation in the agricultural college would therefore be unnecessary, but the addition of such an appropriation to the funds of the school of mines would greatly enlarge the scope of its usefulness. The object of all men interested in mining should be to eliminate the lottery idea from the public mind, and this can only be done by the demonstration of the real condition of the industry at the present time which will follow the passage of this bill. While dissemination of the facts will teach the people of the country that mining is a business, and the more thorough the facilities for the education of mining engineers the greater will be the diffusion of this truth.

The time has passed when all mining was regarded as gambling and miners as confidence men, and anything which has a tendency toeliminate the last vestige of misapprehension regarding its real status would be welcomed, and cannot fail to benefit an industry which during the past year added more than $1,300,000,000 to the resources of the nation.—Ores and Metals.

PERFUMES AND HEALTH.

How Flower Scents May Be Obtained in Three Ways.

Pure violet essence is said to be especially suitable to nervous people, but it must be obtained from the flowers themselves, not from the chemical imitations. Chemically derived perfumes are irritant, poisonous even, to persons of especially sensitive constitution.

True flower scents are obtained in three ways—first, by spreading fresh blossoms upon glass thickly smeared with pure grease, letting them stand in the sun and as they wilt replacing them until the grease is as fragrant as the flowers; second, by repeatedly infusing fresh petals in oil, and, third, by infusing them in ether, which is then distilled to a dry solid.

As this solid sells for about $250 an ounce it is easy to understand why the ether process, though far and away the best, is not commonly used. But the scented grease and the essences made by steeping it in pure spirit are never cheap. After all the scent possible has been extracted from the grease it is still fragrant enough to make the very finest perfumed soap.

All the citrine scents, bergamot, neroi, orange flower water, are refreshing and in a degree stimulating if properly prepared. To make a lasting perfume some animal base is essential—musk, civet or ambergris.

THE TAX ASSESSMENT

AGAIN UP IN CHESTER COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

Mr. Wetzel Induces the Solons to Reconsider Acceptance of County Valuation.

Following an impromptu speech made by Christian Wetzel in regard to the advisability of appointing a town assessor, before the Chester councilmen met last evening, debates overflowing with criticism and suggestions were made in the meeting. Mr. Wetzel contended that an assessor should be appointed. In part he said:

"My conclusions in the matter have been brought about by the many protests of the citizens. According to the state law the city council is compelled to appoint an assessor. I was so informed recently, and as I never was in favor of the county assessor doing the work, I want to make a motion that we either appoint an assessor or instruct the city recorder to accompany the county assessor when he makes his canvass. The assessment, as now in vogue, is not fair, to say the least. From personal experience I know this.

"My property is assessed at nearly $200 per lot and property adjoining it of the same value is assessed at only $6. This condition of affairs is not confined to my lots alone, but is prevalent over the entire city. I know of one man who owns 200 lots, all of which are assessed at $6, when it is conceded by everyone that those lots are worth $150 or more."

Each member of the cooncil expressed his views in regard to the question and not a few daggers were thrown during the debates. After an hour's wrangling Mr. Wetzel made a motion that council reconsider the motion passed at a previous meeting ordering city recorder to take a copy of the county assessor's assessment.

Mr. Mercer made a second to the motion and when put to a vote it was carried, Hough, Wells, Wetzel and Mercer voting "yea" and Shrader, Riley and Johnson voting "no."

A representative of the Bell telephone company was present at the meeting and stated that the company would not accept the franchise as prepared by council. The objection to the franchise lies in the fact that the company does not think it can furnish two phones for the use of Chester officials. The councilmen of one accord are determined that the franchise will not be in the least altered.

Street Commissioner Severs was given an order on the city treasury for $15.35 and the East Liverrool Potteries Company an order for $30. After other business of minor importance, council adjurned, to meet upon call of the president.

SEEKS $2,500

For Damage to His Property By Building Railroad In Chester.

The case of W. L. Smith, of Chester, against the Pennsylvania railroad company, was up before the circuit court at New Cumberland yesterday in consequence of which a large number of Chester people were summoned as witnesses. Among the number were Councilmen, Johnston and Riley, Constable Hiram Allison and Alex Pugh.

The case is the outcome of the railroad company running its tracks through Smith's property, below Third street, without his consent. He sues for $2,500 damages.

The plaintiff was given a verdict for $256. It is said that Mr. Smith will now enter suit against the company on several other charges.

BRUSH IS THE BOSS.

Cincinnati Magnate Chairman of Executive Committee That Will Rule League.

SEASON WILL OPEN APRIL 17.

Old Organization Decides to Make Strenuous War on the American. Spalding Ball Adopted—Umpires Appointed.

New York, April 4.—The National League baseball magnates were in session long after midnight. N. E Young gave out the information that it was decided to run the league this year without a president. The affairs, instead, will be managed by an executive committee composed of James Hart, of Chicago, A. H. Soden, of Boston, and John T. Brush, of Cincinnati. Mr. Brush will be chairman. He said last night the season would start April 17. Pittsburg will open at St. Louis and Chicago at Cincinnati.

The magnates last evening received a telegram from W. C. Temple, of Pittsburg, declining the position as president of the league, offered him Wednesday. Mr. Temple declined on account of pressure of private affairs. He is at present in Florida.

A playing schedule was adopted, but was not made public in full. It will probably be given out today.. N. F. Young handed in his resignation as president of the league and was then elected secretary and treasurer. The Spalding ball was adopted for league play during the coming season. It was decided that the National League magnates will make strenuous war against the American men. They will make a fight to get all players back that have "jumped" to the American League by paying big money for them.

Mr. Young announced the following appointments of umpires for the coming season: Robert Emslie, "Hank" O'Day, Tom Brown and Joseph Cantillon. An appointment was offered to Thomas Lynch, but he refused it.

CHRISTMAS TOUCHED HANSEN.

Attorney Loaned Negotiator $800, Which Has Not Been Repaid.

Washington, April 4.—Before the house committee investigating the Danish West Indies scandal, yesterday, appeared Carl Fischer-Hansen, who was to be the attorney for Captain Christmas in the alleged negotiations between Denmark and the United States. He was willing to act as attorney for the Danish government, he said, but believed that Christmas had lied to him. He said no member of congress had ever been improperly approached in the matter. The inquiry took on a ludicrous aspect when Hansen declared he had never received anything from Christmas, but had loaned the latter $800 when he was hard up, and the sum had never been repaid. Neils Gron made a brief supplementary statement, saying his sole mission was to place the facts before congress and the public, not to make bribery charges; he was desirous of saving the honor of two countries. "A glorious mission," remarked Chairman Dalzell. The committee then adjourned until Monday.

Many Dupes Responded.

Washington, April 4.—The civil service commission is engaged in running down a man who signed himself Albert O. Steffens, "Secretary of the board of civil service commission, New York branch," and advertised in a number of papers in this country and Germany for persons to fill positions with the "land surveyors of Geographical company at Washington," guaranteeing a salary of $2.50 a day, free transportation to and from their homes and free rations. The responses ran into the thousands. A woman is said to be implicated with him.

Got Charter Through Error.

Harrisburg, April 4.—Judge Weiss rendered a decision ousting the Northern Cambria Street Railway company, which was granted a charter March 1, 1901. In the quo warranto proceedings it was charged that this company had been granted a charter after another company had previously applied and complied with all the requirements of the law. It was also stated that the two applications by companies of the same name led to the error which resulted in the second one receiving the charter.

WHERE IS THE BURGLAR?

TRAINING A RIDING HORSE.

The Master Made Good His Assertion as to What He Could Do.

"Yes," said the riding master, "I have to be a horse trainer as well as a riding master. In fact, I couldn't very well be the second without being the first. I always have horses in my school stables here that are sent to me to train for my pupils. One came this morning, and if you have the time to spare I will show you how I give the first lesson in obedience."

The master then ordered one of his men to bring the horse out into the "school," a great oblong space, covered with sawdust and inclosed and roofed. The horse was a fine, spirited animal, with an intelligent and kindly eye, and the master said at once that he would be a tractable and teachable subject, explaining that he had not yet had a chance to "make his acquaintance."

"Now," said he, "you must remember that this horse has never seen me before and that I am, therefore, a perfect stranger to him, and yet I think I can establish between him and myself so good a feeling that in five minutes' time he will follow me all about the school at a word of command—perhaps without a command. Let us see."

He then approached the horse, and the man stepped away. Speaking a few words gently, he patted the animal's neck and rubbed his hand over his head. Telling the man to give him a small riding whip, long and straight, with a keen lash, he placed himself with his right shoulder close to the horse's head, holding the bridle rein near the bit with his right hand and in his left hand the whip extended back horizontally so that the lash was opposite to the horse's flank.

"Now," said he, "for our lesson." And he began leading the horse around the school, keeping his shoulder close to the animal's head. Presently he took his hand off the bridle, and the horse at once began to move away from his shoulder, but a sharp turn of the master's wrist brought the lash of the whip against his flank just hard enough to make a little sting, and at the same time the master caught hold of the bridle and gently pulled the refractory head close to his shoulder again.

This was repeated half a dozen times, and then the horse evidently reasoned out the situation somewhat in this way:

"As long as I keep my head close to this man's shoulder it's all right, but the minute I take it away something back there jumps up and sticks me. Therefore I'll not take it away any more."

That must have been the way he reasoned, for within the five minutes' time allotted by the riding master the horse was following him all around the school like a big dog, nor did the master have to touch the bridle once.—Atlanta Constitution.

RISKS FIREMEN TAKE.

The Reason Engineer Brown Stuck to His Dangerous Post.

The risks that firemen in big cities take are an everlasting wonder, and the story of Bill Brown, as told by Cleveland Moffett in "Careers of Daring and Danger," shows that the engineer's bravery is sometimes put to tests as severe as those which the hose man or the ladder man even has to endure.

What happened was this: Engine 29, pumping her prettiest, stood at the corner so near the drughouse that the driver thought it wasn't safe for the horses and led them away. That left Brown alone, against the cheek of the fire, watching his boiler and keeping his steam gauge at seventy-five.

As the fire gained chunks of redhot sandstone began to smash down on the engine. Brown ran his pressure up to eighty and watched the door anxiously where the four firemen from his squad had gone into the furnace.

Then an explosion of chemicals in the building sent a flame wide as a house curling across the street, enwrapping engine and man and setting fire to the elevated railway station overhead. Bill Brown stood by his engine with a sheet of fire above him. He heard footsteps on the pavement and voices that grew fainter crying, "Run for your lives!" He was alone, and the skin on his hands, face and neck was blistered.

Brown knew why every one was running. There would be another explosion. It was tolerably certain that he must die if he stayed. But his four chums were in the fire and needed the water. If he quit his engine, the water would fail.

He stoked in coal and ran the gauge up another notch, easing the running parts with the oiler. He was offering his life for his friends.

In a few minutes the four firemen came out of the building. Then Bill Brown ran for his life with his comrades. A second or two later engine 29 was crushed by the falling walls.

A Home Beyond the Grave.

Dan, a colored man, was employed as porter in a mercantile establishment in a town in Florida, and his duties required him to have the store swept by 7 o'clock in the morning. He had been late for many mornings, and on the sixteenth consecutive time his employer remonstrated with him thus:

"Dan, why can't you get here on time?"

"Well, Mr. L.," said Dan, "yer see, I live the other side of Mount Hermon cemetery and can't always get yere on time."

"Why in the world do you live so far from your work?" said his employer.

Without a moment's hesitation Dan responded:

"Yer see, it's dis yere way, Mr. L.—I'll be hones' wid yer—I wants a home beyond the grave."

The committee is composed of Mrs. John Sellers, Mrs. William Miller, Miss Gussie Garner, Miss Jennie Nease and L. C. Nease.

The work of arranging the program has not yet been commenced, but will be taken up in a few days. Much Ado About an "S."

The printing of the Bible is the most strictly guarded work in existence, a fact which appears strange until we reflect on the mischief an inaccurate Bible might bring about. The king's printers and the two universities of Oxford and Cambridge give to the world all the Bibles printed in the United Kingdom except some printed by special license. A few years ago the question arose whether the word "spirit" in Matthew iv, 1, and Mark i, 12, should have a capital "S," it having been previously printed with a small one, and, although the word was obviously wrongly printed, it was not until after the ruling powers at the universities and the king's printers had met in solemn council that leave was given to use the capital letter.

Nothing sanctioned by authority in 1611 may be changed without creating something akin to revolution in the places where Bibles are printed.—Liverpool Post.

THEFT OF A HORSE WAS SUSPECTED

A Warrant Was Issued For the Supposed Thief by Joe Vitale.

MISSING ANNIMAL FOUND

Before the Officers Could Catch the Man—The Animal Had Simply Walked Away, the Stable Door Being Unlocked.

Joe Vitale, the fruit dealer, found his horse missing when he went to feed it this morning.

Jumping to the conclusion that a thief had paid him a visit, Vitale began an investigation. Mary Pfeister, a young girl who lives close to the stable, declared that she saw a man enter the barn between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning and take the horse away. She gave a description of him which tallied so closely to that of one John Allison, of Chester, that Vitale went to the mayor's office and swore out a warrant for him.

Chief Thompson went in search of Allison, learning from Allison's relative that the suspected man had been looking for a horse. While this search for Allison was going on a telephone message was received by the mayor about 11 o'clock stating that the missing horse had been found near Jethro by Ed Rosensteel, where it was wanwering around. Vitale was soon in possession of the animal. The charge against Allison was withdrawn. The stable had not been broken into, the horse having itself pushed the door open. The girl was probably mistaken. Allison had looked at the horse a day before, talking of buying it.

Getting Into Moral Debt.

Philip D. Armour, millionaire and philanthropist, continually warned young men against getting into debt. He loved free men and despised slaves. When asked if he admired a certain brilliant orator, he said: "He may have a superb voice and fine presence, but can't you hear the rattle of his chain? That man is not free. He is under moral obligations that demoralize him. He is not speaking the deepest thing in his soul, and I haven't time to hear any slave talk. I want a man to be just as free as I am."

On another occasion he said: "Don't get into debt—I mean moral debt. It is bad enough to get into debt financially. There goes a young man who is mortgaged. That young man is legging it along with a debt, and it will take twice as much power to get him along as the man without a debt. There are other debts and obligations that are embarrassing in their entanglements. Don't get into debt morally, my boy; don't get into debt so that you may not exercise your freedom to its limits."

Where Four States Meet.

It is queer to think of the possibility of being in four states at once, yet there is one spot in the United States—the only place in the world—where it is possible. Look on your map of this country, says the St. Louis Republic, and you will find an intersection between two straight lines, where Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona meet.

The place is not often visited, as it is not easily reached. The stone erected there by the government surveyors is on top of a spur in the Carriso mountains. The nearest railroad town is Mancos, Colo., nearly 100 miles from the "four corners."

The region about was once densely populated by cliff dwellers, but now there are no human beings within miles.

Our Young Men's Department of Fine Swell Suits is now almost complete. We advise all swell dressers to call and see them.

The Emerald's Power.

Emeralds from India, Persia and Peru are the most valuable. According to their tints and their luster, they are classed as prosines, neronianes and domitianes. According to Suetonius, Nero used to look at the fighting gladiators in his emerald. The stone is the emblem of charity, hope, joy and abundance. It had the reputation of curing epilepsy by application and of being an all round pain killer.

ATLANTIC CITY'S FIRE

Twelve Hotels, Part of the Boardwalk and Young's Pier Destroyed.

LOSS WILL BE ABOUT $750,000

News of the Conflagration Causes New Jersey's Governor to Immediately Sign New Charter for the Popular Seaside Resort.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 4.—Twelve hotels and more than a score of small buildings adjoining the boardwalk, which is built along the ocean edge, were destroyed yesterday by a fire which swept the beach front for two long blocks from Illinois avenue to New York avenue. The local board of insurance underwriters, after a meeting last night, said that the total loss would not exceed $750,000, and the loss to the insurance companies would be about $175,000.

The hotels destroyed are: The Luray and annex, the latter formerly known as the Norwood, owned by J. S. White and son; the New Holland, Mrs. M. J. Lee; Stratford, Arnold W. Waldner; Berkley, Bew Bros.; Bryn Mawr, J. & F. Keffer; Stickney, Mrs. L. V. Stickney; Evard, James T. Gorman; Rio Grande, J. P. Kilpatrick; Mervine, K. Eolls; Academy hotel and Academy of Music, Charles Fralinger; Windsor, G. Jason Waters (partly destroyed); Tarlton, G. Jason Waters. Other victims are: Charles Keeler, drug store; Victor Freisinger, art store; James A. Brady, bath house; David John, druggist; Nabass & Kazarr, oriental goods; Haines, florist; Shimmamura & Co., Japanese novelties; Ching Hop Hing, Chinese novelties; John H. Flett, art store; Partridge & Richardson, millinery and dry goods; Women's Exchange; E. P. Quinn, hair dresser; M. Moyer & Bro., jewelry; Richard Binder, barber.

The fire was discovered shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and for nearly five hours the flames threatened the city with destruction. The local fire department worked well and willingly, but was unable to cope with the flames, and it was found necessary to send to Philadelphia and Camden for aid. Just as the special train bearing the Philadelphia firemen arrived a burning brand set fire to the center of Young's pier, near Tennessee avenue. For a few minutes the pier burned fiercely, but the firemen succeeded in confining the flames to Marine hall. This structure was entirely destroyed, bisecting the pier.

Nothing is left of the boardwalk from Illinois avenue to a point within a few feet of Young's pier but the iron supports. This is the portion of the walk that is mostly used by promenaders. When the fire broke out Mayor Stoy with a delegation was in Trenton urging Governor Murphy to sign for Atlantic City a new charter which, among other things, provides for stricter building laws. When news of the fire reached Trenton the governor immediately signed the charter.

The city council last night arranged for the rebuilding of the burned portion of the boardwalk. Most of the fire victims expressed a desire to rebuild as quickly as possible.

NOT ENOUGH RELIEF GIVEN.

Congressman McClellan Files the Minority Report on the Cuban Reciprocity Measure.

Washington, April 4.—The first of the minority reports on the Cuban reciprocity bill was filed yesterday by Representative McClellan, of New York, of the ways and means committee, who argues that the bill gives Cuba much less in the way of relief than she is justly entitled to. He cites the Teller resolution and the Platt amendment as establishing our assurances to Cuba and the world. Mr. McClellan sums up his position as follows:

"First, the bill does not afford sufficient relief to Cuba, but it minimizes the loss of the present crop of sugar; second, it is possible, but not certain, that a 20 per cent reduction of the Cuban tariff will result in giving us a monopoly of the Cuban market; third, the bill is an enunciation of the Democratic doctrine of reciprocity; it is a breach in the wall of protection, and lowers in part the preposterous Dingley rates.

"If I am afforded the opportunity when the bill comes before the committee of the whole, I shall try to amend it by increasing the rate of reduction so as to make certain not only the control of the Cuban market by us, but also the prosperity of Cuba. I shall also try to amend by striking out the time limit. Failing to amend, for the reasons here stated, I shall vote for the bill."

New York, April 4.—T. Estrada Palma, president-elect of the Cuban republic, addressed the New York chamber of commerce yesterday. Mr. Palma said he hoped for a reciprocal commercial treaty to the end that Cuba should become the largest market in America for the products of the United States, and that this country raise the bar now placed against the Cuban products, especially sugar and tobacco, which are the principal staples of the island. After Senor Palma's speech a vote of thanks was extended to him, and a resolution was offered by Francis B. Thurber in favor of a 50 per cent reduction in the present Cuban tariff. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign trade, with the proviso that such committee report at a special meeting one week from yesterday.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, was elected a member of the chamber at yesterday's meeting.

SENATE PASSES OLEO BILL.

Provisions of the Measure Which Differs From That Passed by the House.

Washington, April 4.—At the conclusion of a lively debate yesterday the senate passed the oleomargarine bill by a vote of 39 to 31.

The discussion was largely in the nature of a reinforcement of arguments previously advanced. Mr. Spooner, of Wisconsin, made the principal speech, maintaining that congress had ample authority to enact the proposed legislation because it was in the interest of the people.

In an earnest protest against the measure Mr. Vest, of Missouri, held that congress was invading the powers of the states. Mr. Scott, of West Virginia, moved to recommit the measure to the committee, holding that it was unsatisfactory to many senators and ought to be perfected. The motion was defeated, 35 to 37.

During the afternoon a perfect flood of telegrams poured into the senate from all parts of the country, urging senators either to support or to oppose the measure.

The measure as passed by the senate differs in some respects from that passed by the house of representatives. It provides that oleo and kindred products shall be subject to all the laws and regulations of any state or territory or the District of Columbia into which they are transported, whether in original packages or otherwise; that any person who sells oleomargarine and furnishes it for the use of others, except to his own family, who shall mix with it any artificial coloration that causes it to look like butter, shall be held to be a manufacturer and shall be subject to the tax provided by existing law; that upon oleomargarine colored so as to resemble butter a tax of 10 cents a pound shall be levied, but upon oleomargarine not colored the tax shall be one-fourth of 1 cent per pound; that upon adulterated butter a tax of 10 cents a pound shall be levied; and upon all process or renovated butter the tax shall be one-fourth of 1 cent per pound. The manufacturers of process or renovated or adulterated butter shall pay an annual tax of $600, the wholesale dealers shall pay a tax of $480 and the retail dealers a tax of $48 per annum.

The measure provides regulations for the collection of the tax and prescribes minutely how the various products are to be prepared for market.

FILIBUSTERS WERE SWAMPED.

House Passes Revenue Cutter Service Bill by 135 to 49.

Washington, April 4.—The senate bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service passed the house yesterday by a vote of 135 to 49. The opponents of the measure fought it to the last ditch. At the very end they attempted a filibuster, but were swept aside by the overwhelming majority in favor of the measure.

The bill gives the commissioned officers of the revenue service relative rank as follows:

Captains, with majors in the army and lieutenant commanders in the navy; first lieutenants, with captains in the army and lieutenants in the navy; second lieutenants, with first lieutenants in the army and lieutenants (junior grade) in the navy, and third lieutenants, with second lieutenants in the army and ensigns in the navy. It gives the officers of the service longevity pay equivalent to the corresponding rank in the army, and provides for their retirement with three-fourths pay for disability or upon reaching the age limit of 64 years.

Twice Wrecked In a Week.

Cumberland, Md., April 4.—Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 9, en route for Pittsburg, was wrecked yesterday for the second time this week, colliding with a helper at Philson. Both engines of the passenger train, running double header, were wrecked, but no one was injured. The same train was wrecked Sunday morning in the same locality, when four persons were injured.

Pennsylvania Postmasters Confirmed.

Washington, April 4.—The following Pennsylvania postmasters were confirmed by the senate: D. W. Bedea, Shenandoah; E. R. Linder, Orwigsburg; L. Biltz, Girardsville; Robert B. Clayton, Ashland; J. N. Watson, Hattboro.

HOME STUDY COURSE

EDITED BY E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS LL.D.

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,
Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

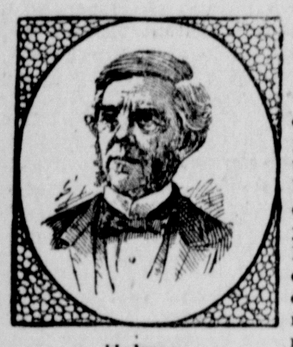
IV.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

ON commencement day, 1809, his father, Rev. Abiel Holmes, wrote in his almanac opposite Aug. 29, "Son 6," and, sprinkling sand upon the ink, probably started for the exercises, which were in those days of greater interest to city and country than an ordination or a circus of the period. He was a man of renown, son-in-law and biographer of President Stiles of Yale and author of the "Annals of America," besides being pastor of the first parish in Cambridge, notwithstanding his New Haven education. Son Oliver Wendell would have dwelt longer on his descent from the fine old families represented by those two names than can be done here, for it was one of the cardinal points of his belief that a man should be very careful in selecting his ancestors. His own were the best that New England could furnish.

It was inevitable that the boy of sixteen should enter Harvard and from a rhyming tendency already shown that he should deliver poems before the Hasty Pudding club at junior exhibition and at the commencement of 1829. His first printed collection of verse, written while a law student, is called "Runaway Ballads," possibly from one on a proposed elopement which contains this:

Get up! Get up! Miss Polly Jones, the tandem's at the door.
Get up and shake your lovely bones; it's twelve o'clock and more.
The chaises they have rattled by, and nothing stirs around,
And all the world but you and me are snoring safe and sound.

But at this date he could also write something as grand as "Old Ironsides" and thus foreshow the twofold direction in which his poetic gift would win its triumphs. As a testimony to the practical value of his early verse it should be added that this burst of reverent patriotism inspired the universal protest which saved the old Constitution from being broken up.



Holmes.

Holmes found the study of medicine, for which he had abandoned that of the law, still less congenial to the poetic muse notwithstanding two years of study and travel in Europe. Nothing that he saw there made him forget his beloved Boston, to which he returned in 1835 to take his degree as a poet by reading at Harvard the next year a long poem entitled "Poetry, a Metrical Essay," the first of over fifty which he delivered on similar occasions during his life. He was preeminently the poet of occasion—celebrations, anniversaries and public festivals. He was always ready and good natured, being at length beyond the unpoetical suggestions of the dissecting room or at least accustomed to them. It was in the days of the "Autocrat" that he remarks: "My friend the poet tells me he has to leave town whenever the anniversaries come round. What's the difficulty? Why, they all want him to get up and make speeches or songs or toasts, which is just the very thing he doesn't want to do. But they tease him and coax him and by pressure on the weak spot of his head stupefy him to the point of acquiescence."

Holmes always had the rare talent of writing in his library just what would fit the after dinner mood of the company. There was champagne in his brain.

The extent of his possible effervescence is indicated by examples with which his readers are familiar. Each one will recall his favorite and every one "The One Hoss Shay" and "How the Old Horse Won the Bet," both of which betray cavalier blood from some remote knight or possibly from a nearer judge of horseflesh. The "Class Poems" for thirty-eight years, from "Bill and Joe" in 1851 to "After the Curfew" in 1889, are bright with reminiscence and hopes.

Beyond all the wit and humor of his verse was that of pathos, which is its nearest neighbor in exalted characters. It is not always possible for dull spirits to distinguish between buoyancy and levity any more than between irony and sarcasm, humor and wit. Even a book of synonyms does not help their perceptive faculties. But the dullest know the difference between laughter and tears, and this writer knew how to move his hearers and readers to the one or the other at will—this, too, without pretense of art or purpose. He simply spoke out the suggestions of an April heart, with its sunshine and showers, restraining neither its gladness nor its gloom. The total effect, however, is as the joy of springtime and not the melancholy of autumn. Let those who are growing old read "In the Twilight:"

Not bedtime yet! The full blown flower
Of all the year—this evening hour—
With friendship's flame is bright;
Life still is sweet, the heavens are fair,
Though fields are brown and woods are bare,
And many a joy is left to share
Before we say good night.
And when, our cheerful evening past,
The nurse, long waiting, comes at last,
Ere on her lap we lie
In wearied nature's sweet repose,
At peace with all her waking foes,
Our lips shall murmur ere they close
Good night and not goodby.

Holmes' verse is by no means confined to poems of sentiment. The title to those written between 1840 and 1865, "Songs In Many Keys," might be prefixed to the entire collection in two goodly volumes. They range from the plowman to the warrior, from maid Agnes to St Anthony, from Avis to the Old Man of the Sea, from Parson Turrell to Shakespeare. There are songs of life and labor, of present and departed days, of festival and funeral, of greeting and farewell, of times and seasons, of peace and war. Those labeled "In War Time" are characteristic of this poet, as Whittier's and Longfellow's and Lowell's were of the way each one interpreted its message to the nation. The manner in which different people and parties received the call to arms is clearly stated in his "Thus Saith the Lord," in "Never or Now," an equally clear summons to fill the ranks; in "Our Country," the better sentiment of which finally prevailed from the lakes to the gulf.

In "The Temple," "The Last Leaf" and "The Chambered Nautilus" the poet reaches the loftiest height which he attained.

There is much said about the dead line of fifty, after crossing which a man's comfort in his work must be chiefly in looking backward. Holmes was within one step of this supposed arctic circle when he began the "Autocrat" papers once more after an interruption of twenty-five years to "see if the ripe fruit were better or worse than the early windfalls." He found it so much better that he would never allow those two early papers in the New England Magazine to be reprinted. How good the rest of the reading world found the entire "Breakfast Table Series" is a matter of literary history connected with the immediate success of The Atlantic Monthly in the hard times of 1857 and later. Whoever lived in those years felt that in spite of financial straits it was time for New England to laugh. It had not indulged in a general smile for 240 years.

When the series was finished, the demand for more continued. Accordingly a second and after awhile a third followed under the titles of "The Professor at the Breakfast Table" and "The Poet at the Breakfast Table." Of these the author himself said they were like the successive squeezing of the vintage, but some, like Lowell, prefer the second run to the first. The third had the advantage of some years' interval between it and the preceding one.

So much cannot be said for his novels, which were the experiments of a professional in the line of his profession to illustrate theories of transmission and heredity. "Elsie Venner" has the kind of charm that is supposed to belong to the eye of a serpent. "The Guardian Angel" interests by its portrayal of provincial traits, and the "Mortal Antipathy" does not add to his renown. Better are his biographies of Motley and Emerson, works of sympathetic and keen appreciation. But the hurried reader will turn first to the earlier writings of the professor and poet in his chair at the breakfast table, where he is at his best and supreme.

The entire series may be regarded as similar brands from the same choice vine which had its roots close by the fountains of wisdom and its branches spread to the sunlight of heaven. The warmth of a genial spirit is in them, sparkling with vivacious wit and cheerful humor, stimulating to other minds and steadying them withal by its sane intelligence. It is the rarefied common sense of the refined American, alert and discreet, deft and graceful, thoughtful and conservative. His eye was keen for the vulnerable spot and the weak one. Physician for the spirit as well as for the body, for the soul cramps which New England had inherited with its rheumatism, he knew that laughter at its own infirmities would give it a wholesome shaking up, even if accompanied with shrieks of protestation. His hatred of Calvinism and homeopathy sometimes made "Physician, heal thyself," an appropriate rejoinder, but he took much cant and nonsense out of the age and taught the difference between good taste and poor in life and letters, between pretense and reality, honesty and dishonesty, affectation and sincerity, a little knowledge and profound wisdom. This he accomplished in the genuine kindliness of a gracious disposition, which was humorous without bitterness and witty without malice; whose pathos never descended into bathos, having always in it the elements of cheerfulness and of hope. Accordingly his place is among the bright and happy spirits in literature, to whom we turn when we wish to listen to revelations of personality like those of Montaigne and Pepys and Kit North or to be reminded of talk and tables at the Mermaid tavern or Will's coffee house, at Ambrose's and at Essex Head.

The Actor Affects the Part; the Part Does Not Affect the Actor

By JOHN DREW, Actor

THE parts played have no effect upon the actor's personality, for the actor affects the part; the part does not affect the actor. Edwin Booth was one of the kindest hearted men alive, yet one of his greatest parts was Iago. Joseph Jefferson has played Rip Van Winkle for over a third of a century, but in real life he has none of the qualities of the half drunken scamp that he portrays so exquisitely. THE MERE FACT OF PLAYING THE PART OF FAGIN WILL NOT STIMULATE A MAN TO BECOME A PICKPOCKET. One of Sir Henry Irving's best impersonations is that of Alfred Jingle. No one would ever dare to say that because he enacted the part so cleverly upon the stage he would lower himself to the thoughts and feelings of the character when off the boards.

There are a number of stories told of the old actors that seem to contradict this theory. Among them is the well known one of the elder Booth chasing a fellow actor down a long flight of steps and out into the street with a drawn sword with murderous intent while simulating the character of Richard III. upon the stage, but this was the vagary of a drunken man. They tell us that Macready used to shake a ladder to work himself up to a proper frenzy for a certain scene, but I am quite sure that none of the old worthies was so saturated with his part that he forgot himself in the intensity of his simulating passion, for this would not be art, but realism in its worst form.

Of course we must make the effect upon our audiences convincing, but TO MY MIND THE MORE PERFECT THE ART THE MORE CONVINCING THE ACTOR BECOMES. And so it is with the portrayal of the gentleman upon the stage. It is not the question of the tailor or the clothes that a man wears, but his own idea of the character that he intends to portray.

I have of late been playing a part in which I am decorated with a Victoria cross. If this mimic life should become real to me, I should of course imagine that I had a real cross upon the lapel of my coat and that I was entitled to the honor, an absurdity.

His Debut as an Actor.

Frank J. McIntyre was a newspaper man in Ann Arbor, Mich., before he became an actor. He began as a "cub" reporter while still a student in Michigan university and finally advanced until the editor left him in charge of the paper on one occasion when he took a trip to Detroit.

Two important local items were to be printed, one relating the sad demise of a young man of prominent family, the other telling how a traveling salesman had jumped his board bill at a local hotel. "Mac" had to write the headlines for these stories, and, after scratching his head, he evolved "Passed Away Quietly" for the obituary story and "Jumped His Board Bill" for the hotel beat. "Mac" was proud of his achievement and, lighting a big cigar, leaned back in his chair and began to realize how it feels to be an editor.

The man who "made up" the paper scanned the headings, transposed them, and the friends and relatives of the deceased read that he had "Jumped His Board Bill," and the bereaved landlord learned that his late guest had "Passed Away Quietly."—New York World.

Autumn Haze.

"Autumn haze," says a meteorological expert, "is dust composed of the finest particles of soil, dead leaves, smoke or ashes from wood fires, salt from ocean spray, the shells or scales from microscopic siliceous diatoms, germs of fungi, spores of ferns, pollen of flowers, etc. In the still air of damp nights these dust particles settle slowly down, and the morning air is comparatively clear. During the daylight the sun warms the soil, which heats the adjacent air, and the rising air currents carry up the dust as high as they go. Under certain conditions this layer of dust reaches higher and higher each day. During long, dry summers in India it reaches to a height of 7,000 feet, with a well defined upper surface that is higher in the daytime than at night. The reason why we have more of hazy weather in autumn is because there is then less horizontal wind and more rising air."

Heathenizing It.

"My friend," said the missionary who was trying to convert the wealthy mandarin, "do you not know that it is easier for the camel to get through the eye of the needle than"—

"Than it is for me," the mandarin interrupted, "to get through the need of an idol, eh? Very true."—Philadelphia Record.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. UNDER THE STREETS

VAST SYSTEMS OF TUNNELS BEING BUILT IN LARGE CITIES.

New York, London and Chicago In Process of Change—Boston's Fine Subway System—Problems That Face Centers of Population.

One of the most pressing problems of modern life in great cities is the transportation of the immense working population to and fro between its place of daily labor and its homes. So serious is the situation in such great centers of population as New York, London, Chicago and other large cities that the streets are inadequate for the movement of the multitudes and must be made to do double and triple service. So great is the pressure for room that the underground world has been invaded, and vast systems of tunnels have been built or are in course of construction.

In New York they are building a subway, after years of cogitation over the matter, that is to cost many millions of dollars and is to afford increased transit facilities to that city. This work has been acclaimed as one of the engineering marvels of the age, and the newspapers and technical publications of the country have been full of descriptions of it. In the prosecution of the construction operations the streets of New York have been torn up and rendered impassable to the public for months at a time.

In Chicago a work of practically equal magnitude has been going on under ground, but as there have been no torn up streets or any external evidences of the work it has escaped public notice. With the single exception that much of the New York excavation has to be made through solid rock, while that of the Chicago project is through the treacherous blue clay that underlies the city, there is but little difference from an engineering standpoint in the character of the two enterprises, except that New York's subway is being built on the credit of the municipality, while that in Chicago is being constructed by a private corporation.

Today in the business portion of Chicago there are over five miles of these tunnels completed, and the rate of construction is over a mile a month. A thousand men, working in eight hour shifts, are rushing this gigantic work, and by the 1st of September the downtown system of tunnels, which will comprise thirteen miles in all, will have been completed. Yet this will be only a beginning. Before the plans of the corporation building this subterranean network will have reached completion over fifty miles of tunnel will have been built.

These tunnels are intended to carry the wires of the new telephone company. In building the tunnels, however, the company has not constructed them with a view of utilizing them for that purpose alone; hence the size of the underground bore. Under most of the streets the tunnel is 8 feet high by 6 in width. In others, however, the tunnel is 14 feet high by 12 feet in width, or large enough to take the telephone cable in on its reels and enable the workmen to properly distribute it.

Under its franchise the company which is constructing these tunnels has the right not only to string the wires for its telephone service, but to transmit mails and newspapers. This is why the tunnels have been made so large.

Boston has just completed a most elaborate underground system of railroad which connects with nearly all the ferries and railway stations in that city and is at present the best existing subway system in the world.

For many years London has had underground railways, but they were run on such primitive methods as to excite ridicule. Recently Charles T. Yerkes of New York secured control of one of the roads and has been improving and adding to it and ripping open the bowels of London generally. The trains on the new road are operated and lighted by electricity, and the stations are lined with white tile. This road proved an immediate success, and its earnings the past year have been large. Mr. Yerkes is preparing to still further extend the system.

THE NEW WOMAN VERSUS THE OLD TIME MOTHER

By Mrs. SUSAN YOUNG GATES of Utah

IT HAS REMAINED FOR THE GREAT CIVILIZATION OF THE NINETEENTH AND TWENTIETH CENTURIES TO IMPOSE UPON WOMANHOOD THE BURDEN OF REGRET AND OFTEN OF SHAME IF SHE BECOMES THE MOTHER OF A LARGE FAMILY OF CHILDREN.

Large families are sneered at, and young girls are taught before marriage that large families are a burden and care, not a blessing, to their country and to their parents. Society, or, rather, too much of it, also comes in for a share of the blame. What are the women of America thinking and doing about this grave problem? Study the census returns in all their significance. Traverse the New England states and observe the half empty schoolrooms. Go to the great centers of population and enter the common schools, observing the nationalities of the children of the United States, and what is the result? Thousands of Russian children are there and nearly as many Germans, while Italians in ever increasing ratio crowd into our places of public instruction.

Where are the descendants of the pilgrim fathers and the Puritan mothers, whose families were often fifteen in number and seldom less than seven? If their descendants had followed in the footsteps of their forbears, they would today have been the dominant people of America in numbers as well as in intelligence.

Where are the old Knickerbocker families of New York? And where, may we ask, are the pure descendants of the courtly southern families? The mental emancipation of woman, which is already an accomplished fact, has given her a delightful taste of aggressive freedom. The American woman has boldly seized her mental opportunities and in some cases has forced them from the grasp of her fearful male opponent. BUT IN THAT STRUGGLE FOR INTELLECTUAL GREATNESS WHICH WOMAN HAS BEEN MAKING FOR THE LAST HALF CENTURY SHE HAS FORGOTTEN THE REASON OF HER EXISTENCE, THE POWER OF HER WOMANHOOD AND THE GREAT MISSION OF HER BEING.

Wise counsel on the part of older women to the younger, instead of the sneer, and the teaching that it is woman's first duty to bear children and should be her pride and joy, for which she should be held in high honor and respect, are the antidotes.

Fox's Wit.

The following is one of the many stories told about Charles James Fox, the English statesman and orator:

Mr. Hare, envoy to the court of Poland, occupied rooms in the statesman's "diggings." He was a great personal friend and indeed a man of very similar tastes. They were each the objects of continual inquiry on the part of tradesmen and others. One day Fox, looking out of the upper window, descried two men watching the house and waiting. With a genial smile, he shouted, "Pray, gentlemen, will you tell me, are you Fox hunting or Hare hunting today?"

The bailiffs were so tickled that they went away.

The Listener at the Door.

"Did she say, 'This is so sudden?'"

"No; her mother was listening at the keyhole, and she didn't dare to throw on any frills."

"How do you know her mother was there?"

"Because stooping over shuts off her wind, and you could hear her gasping all over the room."

"Well, what did Minnie say?"

"She whispered: 'Cut it short, Jack. Ma is apoplectic.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Confusing.

"Ah nevah could undahstan'," said Charcoal Eph as he helped himself to a piece of corn bread, "w'y er man blow on he soup ter git hit cool, blow on he han's ter keep dem wahm an' blow on hisse'f ter beat de ban'. Hab some ob de fowl, Mistah Jackson?"—Baltimore News.

Hooligan's Birthday.

"Yis," said Hooligan as he stuck his piece of pipe between his lips and rolled some tobacco in his hands, "it's wanderful how toime flies. Yisterday Oi was only fifty-wan, an' today Oi'm fifty-too. Got a matcu, Dougherty?"—Indianapolis Sun.

Blunders of Painters.

A picture representing the four elements was essayed by an Italian artist, and he selected fish to indicate the sea, moles the earth and a salamander fire. The chameleon was intended as the allegorical representative of the air, but the painter, having no model of this animal and knowing nothing about its shape, contented himself by introducing a camel. He probably thought in his ignorance that from a similarity of sounds they were one and the same animal.

Another painter in a picture of the crucifixion represented a father confessor holding out a crucifix to the repentant thief who was promised a place in paradise by the Saviour.

A Honeymoon Financier.

Judge Edwards of Lee county, who has married over a hundred couples since he has been ordinary, performed the ceremony recently for a runaway couple seated in a buggy in the public road.

The ceremony over, the bridegroom fumbled in his pocket and fished up 66 cents.

"Jedge," he said, "this here's all the money I got in the roun' worl'. Ef you're a mind to take it, you kin, but I'll say straightfor'ards that I'd done sot it aside fer the honeymoon expenses!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Carlyle's View of Aprons.

Carlyle in his "Sartor Resartus" was able to find a deep philosophy in aprons. "Aprons are defenses against injury to cleanliness, to safety, to modesty, sometimes to roguery. From the thin slip of notched silk (as it were, the emblem and beatified ghost of an apron) which some highest bred housewife has gracefully fastened on to the thick tanned hide girt around him with thongs, wherein the builder builds and at evening sticks his trowel, or to those jingling sheet iron aprons wherein your otherwise half naked Vulcans hammer and smelt in their smelt furnace, is there not range enough in the fashion and uses of this vestment?"

Ancient Sacrifices to the Sea.

The navigators of antiquity, to whose imaginative ignorance the ocean seemed peopled and beset with chimeras dire and supernatural agencies of all sorts, used often to sacrifice human lives to the mysterious water gods. It is regarded by tradition that Idomeneus, king of Crete, vowed to sacrifice to Neptune the first living thing he met after escaping from a storm, and this happening to be his son he fulfilled his vow religiously. Medea nearly became a sacrifice during the return voyage of the Argonauts.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR Basket Shares at 50 cts.

Steady Increase of Interest in the Great Organization Which Now Overshadows the Basket-Making Industry of this Country.

Reason for the great and increasing demand for shares of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. is not far to seek.

It is due to popular approval of the Company's plans and to popular comprehension of the Company's great future.

Previous publication of the great scope and money earning power of this Company's field of operations has been made in this newspaper. Whole communities have become interested in the undoubted power of the Company's automatic basket-making machines to completely revolutionize the basket industry. It is safe to say that every county in every State in the Union has representation among the present shareholders.

This Company is composed of shareholders who are participating in increase of values as the various allotments of shares are taken up. The present allotment at

50 Cents a Share

(Par Value $1.00, Full-Paid and Non-Assessable)

is being subscribed more rapidly than any previous allotment.

This is because it is plain to all that the shares of this Company, which will control the prices and product of an important and growing industry, must steadily advance as the Company's plans develop into action.

Facts for the Consideration of Investors.

The actual yearly demand exceeds Two Billion Baskets.

Value at wholesale, Eleven Million Dollars.

The net profit on this volume of business last year was $1,387,000.

The Baskets were all made by hand.

Each Mergenthaler-Horton Company machine does the work of twelve men.

The saving in labor by the use of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machines amounts to more than TWO MILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY.

This gives earnings for the company of OVER THREE MILLION THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, OR OVER THIRTY-THREE PER CENT. ON THE ENTIRE CAPITAL ON THE PRESENT VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

This volume increases at the rate of over 150,000,000 per year.

The machines may be seen in operation at the Robison Basket Company's factory, Painesville, O., where over thirty are installed; at Elmira, N. Y., at the machine shops of Emmett Horton, one of the inventors, and at Sodus, N. Y., where they are also in operation.

The practical working of the machines is now shown in every office of the Company.

The Company will not sell or lease its machines, but will equip and own and operate basket factories all over this country.

ALL THE STOCK IS COMMON STOCK.

There are no preferred shares, no bonds, and no debts. Early shareholders now see their shares double in value. New subscribers will see their shares double in value, and still the limit of price for these shares will not be reached, because just as surely as the Linotype Machine pays its shareholders twenty per cent. on ten millions of capital, just so surely will the Automatic Basket-Making Machines, which save three times as much labor as the Linotype, earn dividends which will make the shares of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company sought for at prices which are beyond present computation.

OTTMAR MERGENTHALER'S EXACT WORDS.

The Famous Inventor's Opinion of the Basket Machines now Owned and Controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. Full Story of Mr. Mergenthaler's connection with These Machines.

Ottmar Mergenthaler, inventor of the Linotype Machine and inventor of one of the Basket-Making Machines of this Company, made the following statement about one year before his death.

"This machine is as much a revolution in basket-making as the Linotype has proven to be in typesetting, and I do not see why a company owning and controlling the patents should not receive an immense revenue."

Mr. Mergenthaler continued to take the deepest interest in the Basket Machine, and the last efforts of his life were in connection with the Machine and watching its operation.

The patent on the Basket Machine invented by Ottmar Mergenthaler was issued to his estate December 31st, 1901, and is numbered 690,322. Copies of this patent may be secured on application to the Patent Office in Washington, or by calling at any office of this Company, and each copy bears the assignment of all right and title in the patent to the Horton Basket Machine Company, which Company has been absorbed and is controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co.

NOTE. Beyond the fact that several directors and a number of shareholders of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. are shareholders and officers in the above mentioned Horton Basket Machine Co., now absolutely controlled by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co., there is no connection whatever between the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. and the Mergenthaler Linotype Co.

The foregoing is an official statement of facts made by authority of the Board of Directors of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Co. (Signed) CHARLES R. BARLOW, Treasurer.
